$1000 REWARD

Price on Head of Strangler

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 14.—Mayor Fletcher this afternoon announced that he would offer $1,000 reward for the capture of the slayer of Miss Laura E. Regester, on behalf of the city of Providence.

The State of Rhode Island, it is believed, will offer at least $500 more. Governor Pothier was being consulted for that purpose this afternoon.

The police now believe that the murderer of the young woman who was strangled to death on Monday night in the Sons of Israel Cemetery is hiding in Boston.

They to-day wired a complete description of the man to the police authorities in Boston. They have told the Boston police to search for a man about 5 feet 5 inches in height, weighing about 140 pounds. Eyes of greenish color, dark hair and florid complexion. The man wanted invariably carries brass knuckles. He wore a gray suit, light cap and stock necktie.

This man met Miss Regester when she alighted from her car on Reservoir avenue the night of the murder, and they were walking down the road towards the place where her body was later found when they were seen by two boys, one of whom was intimately acquainted with the woman. He came into the city proper on the car that left the Reservoir avenue terminus at 10:01 o'clock.

The man was seen with Miss Regester about 150 yards from the care line terminus by John Woods, twenty years of age, of Pontiac street, and Allie Clark, nineteen years of age, of Niantic avenue. The man and the woman were walking in the direction of the lane, at the entrance of which the woman was attacked and slain.

Woods had had a long talk with Miss Regester on Saturday night, and at that time was informed by her that she was preparing for her wedding. The hat and dress which she wore at that time was identical to that worn by the woman whom Woods passed on Reservoir avenue the night of the murder.

Owing to the intense darkness Woods was unable to obtain a good view of the man. His description, however, tallies exactly with that of a man who left on the last Reservoir avenue car at 10:01 o'clock.

Clark was not acquainted with the Regester woman, but he corroborated

CATHOLICS WIN BRITISH VICTORY

LONDON, May 14.—The House of Commons to-day passed, by a small majority, a bill which removes many of the legal restrictions existing in Great Britain against those of the Roman Catholic faith. The discussion was opposed with the reading of a petition containing 500,000 signatures opposing the pro-catholic bill under debate. The bill allows the Jesuit order and others of the Roman Catholic Church to acquire property in England and also throws open the offices of Lord Chancellor and Lord Lieutenant to Catholics.

The bill also filters the King's coronation oath.

This bill was introduced at the opening of the session by William Redmond, M. P., as a result of the interference with the proposed Eucharistic procession in the streets adjoining Westminster Cathedral last year.

The entire Catholic element of England, led by the Duke of Norfolk, is supporting Mr. Redmond's bill, as are the many of the leading men in both the Liberal and Conservative parties.

MERGER PLOT IS EXPOSED

Representative Norman H. White to-day tore the cloak off the proposed holding company bill, drafted by Attorney-General Malone at the instance of the Governor, for the alleged purpose of bringing back into Massachusetts the 110,000 shares of Boston & Maine railroad stock, now held by John L. Billard of Meriden, Ct., but believed by many to be still attached to a string in the office of the New Haven road.

Representative White charges that the holding bill is a merger law in disguise, permitting the New Haven road to do by a special act what the statutes expressly forbid, besides making the State a party in the compounding of a felony. Federal law, inasmuch as the United States Government is suing the railroad under the Hepburn Act, Mr. White says:

Road Can Hold Stock.

"The bill drafted by the Attorney General at the request of the Railroad Committee, the result of the Governor's message, tends toward a solution of the railroad problem. I shall be surprised, however, if the Legislature enacts this bill, for if my observations are correct, it is apparent that a railroad company may be the holding company. The mere fact that the New Haven can hold the stock in Massachusetts which it acquired contrary to Massachusetts law.

"Furthermore, the United States government is now suing the New Haven road under the Hepburn act. The question must therefore arise whether the Legislature of Massachusetts is first going to condone the breaking of our law by permitting any railroad company to hold this illegally acquired stock and then compound a felony committed against the United States as well.

"I believe that the bill should be so amended that the holding company should not be the New Haven road or any other railroad company, but purely and simply a body of citizens created by an act of the Legislature for the purpose of safe-guarding the transportation interests of Massachusetts and New England as well."

New Haven Ownership.

"It is evident, and has always been evident, that the so-called Billard stock is still and has been controlled by the New Haven road, and it is also evident that the New Haven road is now willing to bring this stock into Massachusetts. This being the case the only proper solution in my opinion is to create a holding company of Massachusetts citizens and not a holding company of the New Haven road.

"I am told it has been stated by the Senate chairman of the Railroad Committee there would be no public hearings on this bill. If this be true, the most important bill in years will not receive the consideration it is entitled to receive. I hope that the views of the public will be expressed before the committee.

Representative Robert M. Washburn of Worcester, clerk of the committee on railroads, says to-day that the committee will meet in executive session on Tuesday morning next at 10:30 o'clock to consider the Holding Company bill. As to a public hearing on the measure, Mr. Washburn says:

"I can simply, at present, speak for myself. If the public wants one, I shall do what I can to give them one."

HOUSE SETS NEW RECORD FOR SPEED

Representative Ernest L. Hobson of Palmer presided in the House to-day, and rushed the measure through their calendar in sixteen minutes, which constitutes a record for the present session. Three bills were passed to be engrossed. To provide a penalty of fine and imprisonment for railroad officials and agents who violate Massachusetts laws; to provide for a high school of commerce and school administration building in the city of Boston; to provide for investigation of the advisability of authorizing the Boston & Eastern Electric Railroad Company to construct tunnels and subways in the city of Boston.

DRAPER VETOES BILL FOR STREET SALES

Declaring it to be legislation granting special privileges to certain persons, and also that it is unwise for the Legislature to undertake the detailed regulation of street traffic in Boston, Governor Draper to-day vetoed the "Act to authorize the sale of berries by auction at certain times within the market limits of the city of Boston." Action on the veto was postponed by the Senate until Monday. The bill provides that during April, May, June and July, from 8 to 10 a. m., dealers in berries may sell their wares at auction from vehicles in highways within the market limits of the city.

BABY BLUE EYES IDENTIFIED

The identity of "Baby Blue Eyes," the two-and-a-half-year-old boy picked up in the street in the South End last Saturday morning, and who has since been in the care of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, was established to-day through a search made by reporters for the AMERICAN.

The records of the birth of the baby show that his name is Adelbert Sylvia, born October 20, 1906. The mother's name is Frances Sylvia. The address of the parents is given as Fall River. The place of birth was Talitha Cumi Home, No. 204 Brookline street.

The mother of the baby is prominent in Fall River church circles. She has not seen the baby since he was born and wouldn't be able to identify him now, according to the stories told by various women who have had charge of the little one since his entrance into a troubled world.

Taken to Waltham.

Just as soon as the child was able to be taken away it was removed to the home of a Mrs. Glover of Waltham.

Mrs. Glover fell ill in about four months. Her daughter-in-law, Mrs. A. H. Burgess, of No. 67 Lebanon street, Malden, found another place for him with Mrs. Ross Niles of No. 81 Lebanon street, Malden.

Mrs. Niles in company with a reporter this afternoon saw the baby at the society's rooms and positively identified it. She said that the child had been brought to her by Mrs. Hattie Sylvia of Walnut street, Fall River, who paid for her keeping him.

Mrs. Niles said that she got the baby last February two years ago. She kept it until the latter part of February last, when

BISHOP DOANE IN PLEA FOR CHURCH UNITY

"What is the outlook for Christian unity? It depends upon the looker," said Bishop W. C. Doane of the Episcopal diocese of Albany, N. Y., at the church congress at Tremont Temple to-day in the discussion upon the outlook for visible church unity.

"The universal church is composed of all who profess and call themselves Christians. Unity can be reached by reconciliation. The way to restore visible unity is a proposal toward reconciling with us the Reformed Episcopal Church. Its grounds of difference have now been forgotten.

"We must learn to modify our differences, and we are altogether too loose in our use of the terms schismatic and heretics. There is a wide divergence and belief among ourselves, and care is needed in the use and application of these terms.

"Every human being baptized in the name of the Trinity is a member of the body of Jesus Christ. God sets these other Christian ministries valid ministries.

"There is the danger of arranging meat in bottle camps, of putting Hindu and Ahkund into every denomination. And the great hope in the future lies in deep desires to break down barriers and to get nearer one another."

Rev. W. F. Faber of Detroit took a broad view of unity as essential in the life and achievements of every man, and laid stress upon unity in the sense of mutual service and fellowship.

"I have been surprised a great deal," he said, in concluding, "at the amount of wind and talk about Christian unity, and then pass on to the singing of the hymn, 'Onward, Christian Soldiers, Marching as to War.' One mind in one body being the unity in every person, should aid us in promoting unity everywhere in our social, civic and family relations."

The Rev. W. H. Huntington, D.D., of New York, pleaded earnestly for more Christian unity and declared that international arbitration and the unifying of the Christian churches are two of the most important questions before the world to-

SOUTH END GROUNDS, May 14.—The wind-up game of the series between the Doves and Reds was the attraction at the Dovey Park this afternoon, and a fairly good crowd turned out to witness the encounter.

After breaking the hoodoo that has been doing faithful work against the Doves, Big Mike Bowerman to out with blood in his eye to capture the last game of the series and thus send the Reds away from the cultured city with only an even break. He realized that it would take some hard work to down the Cincinnati men, for they are the baodiest boys with the willows that have been here this season. Each one of the three games played has been full of heavy batting and the players on both teams have swelled their batting averages. The series, prior to to-day's mixup, stood 2 to 1 in favor of the visitors, and this standing is one more spot with Bowerman, as he expected easy meat with the Cincl team.

The "run-in" several of the Cincinnati players have had with Umpire Cusack in yesterday's game did not affect the line-up of the Reds, as the offenders were not regulars.

DETROIT, May 14.—The Red Sox tribe landed in this camp this morning, after winding away from the series from Cleveland, and hustled to their hotel. The men all appeared to be in fine shape. There is sure to be a lot of trouble ahead for the Tigers, as this bunch has cleaned up right along the circuit so far and are playing phenomenal ball at this stage of the race. Detroit will have to look to its laurels for the next few days.

The Jennings crew have had it pretty soft, with things very much their own way, but now they are up against diamond stars of the first water, the real article in the baseball line, for the Red Sox this afternoon open the first of a series of four games with the local champs, and it will take all of Jenning's cunning and Detroit's batting, fielding and base running to get away with an even break from the visitors.

The Red Sox have won their games by playing clean and fast baseball from start to finish and have batted the opposing pitchers hard, several of the regulars being in the .300 class.

The result of this series will determine who is going to hold down the pinnacle in the American League race, which has been most eagerly awaited by the members of both teams.

TAFT COMING, BUT BEVERLY IGNORES '4TH'

BEVERLY, May 14.—The tide of patriotism run high in Beverly when it was learned that the City Council had accepted the Finance Committee's report carrying down the order appropriating $500 for a public celebration of the Fourth of July. It is the first time in the history of this city that the City Council has failed to set aside some money for Independence Day observance. There is talk of raising the money by popular subscription.

In view of the fact that President Taft is to establish his Summer capital here, the people generally feel that this year, above all others, the town should celebrate in honor of the nation's chief.

Colonel E. Glinn, a former commander of the Sons of Veterans, says he will raise $500 or more if the City Council does not vote in favor of the motion to reconsider offered by Councilman William C. Blaisdell, father of the appropriation order. The question of reconsideration may come up at the special meeting to be held next Thursday. If not, it will be in order at the regular meeting two weeks hence.

The City Council failed to save the order, it is believed, because of sectional politics. Aldermen Hodgdon and other Beverly Farms men in the Council were against it. Their opponents say that they wanted part of the money for a Farms celebration, and did not get a satisfactory arrangement. The Farms is tenanted in the Summer by millionaire cottagers, and usually about $1,500 is spent there every Fourth of July for celebration purposes, but the city treasury does not provide it. This year the Farms people seemed to think they were entitled to a share of the city appropriation.

Public feeling is so strong on the matter that reconsideration is looked for.

NORWELL SCHOOL HEAD GETS HEARING

NORWELL, May 14.—Rivers R. Sears, principal of the Norwell High School, whose resignation was requested a few days ago following trouble with one of the pupils during a session of the school, has been granted a hearing by the school committee, and the affair will be aired in public next Monday afternoon.

HIDE PLANS OF ARMY TO TAKE CUBA

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Some irritation was shown to-day by high officials connected with the War, Navy and State Departments over the publication of a report that the government has completed plans for the re-occupation of Cuba at a not distant date, following the financial taught into which the Cuban government is daily becoming more deeply involved.

Previous to the evacuation of Cuba, Major Mason M. Patrick, who was acting as chief engineer officer of the Cuban army of pacification, made a lengthy report to General Barry, in which it was shown that practically every foot of Cuba had been plotted and mapped by the engineers and officers of other branches of the service for possible future use.

Major M. K. Winslow of the engineer corps has made a report, in which it was shown that the entire island has been thoroughly mapped for possible future use by United States troops. Despite all this, the higher officers in the War Department are to-day strenuously asserting that, "so far as we know," there is no intention to again occupy Cuba. Some of the officers could not do otherwise without subjecting themselves to charges for frank by court-martial. Their denials and silence will therefore be readily understood.

One officer who is a member of the general staff, and high in rank, but whose identity cannot be revealed, and who is close to administration circles, said to-day:

"The third invasion of Cuba will probably not be one of military command at first, but in the nature of a diplomatic one. This plan, as its inception, would not call for a single soldier, and would place confidently permit the Cubans to govern themselves under direction of the United States. Instead of a governor, an agent would be appointed who would have an office in the governor's palace, and to whom all governmental matters would have to be submitted."

Representative Champ Clark of Missouri said:

"I regret to hear that conditions in Cuba are such as may force another intervention on our part. My guess is that if we are compelled to intervene again we will stay there for keeps."

Representative Austin of Tennessee said he knew conditions are not satisfactory in Cuba and that the Cubans government has not lived up to its promises.

MOTHER OF LOST CHILD IS FOUND

Mrs. Sylvia called on her and said she could not keep up the payment for the child. She asked Mrs. Niles to accompany her to the South Terminal Station in Boston, where another woman was seen.

Taken by Another Woman.

Mrs. Sylvia and the other woman had a conference. The second woman was not introduced to Mrs. Niles. This woman took the baby away.

Mrs. Burgess overhorned the story of Mrs. Niles. It was wrung from the story of these two women that the birth of the baby was traced.

Miss Nellie Baker and Miss Mary Mansfield, who are employed in the millinery of the Waverley Hotel in Charlestown, declared this afternoon that on last Saturday morning about 9:30 o'clock, they saw Frank McCaskill of No. 4 Jenner street, Charlestown, with the baby in his arms.

McCaskill is a brother of Mrs. Sadie Hardy who identified the baby at the society's room today. Mrs. Hardy told the society officials that she had had the baby four weeks. She said she obtained the child from his mother in Lowell and declared that while she was absent from her home last Saturday the mother had called there and had taken the baby away.

When a reporter tried to find Frank McCaskill today it was said that he was off on a fishing trip. He is about twenty years of age.

Clothing Changed.

The baby's clothing had been changed between the time it was taken from Charlestown and two hours later when it was picked up at the corner of Oneida street and Harrison avenue. Why was this done?

Mrs. Hardy and the other woman who saw the child today agreed that the name is Albert Stinson, and that he was called "Jimmie." They declared that they did not know each other and had never seen each other before.

Mrs. Hardy admitted that she had first had her attention called to pictures and stories in the newspapers about the child last Monday, but said that she had not investigated it because the child was dressed differently then. It was not found that "Baby Blue Eyes" was when he reached the society's rooms.

"Jimmie" was taken up in the arms of the woman and called by the name she said he was known by. The boy smiled knowingly.

"He is awfully afraid of cats," Mrs. Hardy said. Then she said, addressing the boy:

"Look out for the kitties, Jimmie," and the boy snuggled close to her as though he were frightened.

When seen by a reporter of the AMERICAN at the society's rooms, Mrs. Hardy told this story of her connection with the mysterious baby:

"I read an advertisement about five weeks ago in the AMERICAN under the heading, 'For Adoption,' telling about a baby boy in Lowell. I wrote a special delivery to the mother of the child and got a reply.

"It said meet you in the railroad depot here,' the mother wrote, 'and you'll know me because I'll have the baby with me, and I'll have a bundle.'

"I went to Lowell and met the woman and the boy in the depot. The mother was between thirty and thirty-five years of age and was dressed completely in black. She told me that the boy's name was Albert Stinson and that his nickname was Jimmie. She said he was about two and a half years of age.

"The mother said that she could not afford to keep him. I said I would take him, and Jimmie came with me willingly. The mother said she would send me the necessary papers to make the adoption legal. There was no mention of money and very little said about what I should do with the boy or what course I should pursue. I told her that I would give him a good home.

A TRIO OF HARD WORKING BOYS IN WORLD RACE

JOHN CARMODY

CANDIDATES OUT HUSTLING IN TOUR RACE

SURE HE WILL WIN.

Harry Rudnick, of No. 5 Holborn Place, Roxbury, who has won two of the special gold prizes, writes to the Around-the-World Editor that he proposes to spend his prize money "in sending souvenirs to his subscribers from the different countries through which the tourists will pass." He is a confident young man. Also he is enthusiastic and is hustling more than ever these days. He has big plans and the principal one is to win one of the big globe-girdling tours.

An interesting and hard-working trio in the Race Around the World contest of the BOSTON AMERICAN is in Malden, Everett and Framingham. Louis Coleman, No. 242 Bryant street, Malden, and John Jordan, No. 25 Hayes street, South Framingham.

These boys have come to realize more fully that the proper way to win in this contest is by paid-in-advance subscriptions, and are busily engaged working among their friends, relatives, neighbors and schoolmates. They are enlisting the help of their social and business affiliations.

John Carmody has canvassed from house to house in his home city, West Everett, and is determined to leave no subscription uncollected. Louis Coleman is determined that life is not going to stand calmly aside and let the other fellows walk off with the big prize, if persistent effort will win it in his direction. John Jordan the South Framingham candidate, is practically alone in that field and is improving his position by going after the subscriptions good and hard.

A promising little candidate among the girls is Miss Marie Etta Craig, No. 5 Chester street, Roxbury. She is the candidate of the New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R. employes, and with their support she hopes to secure a prominent place among the winners. She is an attendant of the Hyde Park High school and promises to keep well up with her numerous rivals.

SPITE FENCE CAUSES FINE

James Barrett, who lives at No. 50 Norfolk street, Dorchester, and has a real estate office at No. 641 Warren street, Roxbury, was fined $10 to-day on the charge of obstructing the sidewalk at his residence after being summoned before Judge Churchill in the Dorchester district court. The case revealed a boundary feud between him and Mrs. Louis Koreb, who owns a three-suite house and a store adjoining the Barrett home.

Mr. Barrett appealed and was held in $100 for the Superior Court, having court under his own recognizance.

Mrs. Koreb recently built a store in front of her apartment house and complained that the fence separating her property from Mr. Barrett's was on her land. A surveyor named Churchill made measurements and reported that she was correct. The fence was taken down and Mr. Barrett erected another one thirteen feet high and about thirty-seven long, which is very close to Mrs. Koreb's store and on a side where there is a window in the latter building. The high board barrier is painted green and some persons caristened it a "spite fence."

Mrs. Koreb complained to Patrolman James C. Rogers that the fence projected upon the sidewalk, which is city property. The policeman reported the complaint to the Board of Street Commissioners, and on April 29 William J. Semple, a city surveyor, took measurements. He reported that the thirteen-foot fence projected nine inches upon the sidewalk.

NEW FEATURES FOR "THE BIRDIES' BALL"

For the extra performances of "The Birdies' Ball" and "The Fiddler of Noddheim," to be given in Jordan Hall to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock there will be new features which did not appear in the first two productions of last week. Miss Frances Lathin will appear as the Noddheim delight in "Fiddler's" fun, and presented by fifteen from being in former productions. Wendell Endicott will put on his solo dances from "The Pied Piper of Hamlin" and from "The Wonder-Wander Man." The entertainment is for the benefit of the newsboys' reading room and students' help fund.

FAT MAN BLOCKS HALL.

NEW YORK, May 14.— Fire started early to-day in the five-story tenement at No. 41 Carmine street, but when the twenty-five families tried to flee they found a fat man and a trunk wedged in the hall. Policeman Kane ran in and pulled at the fat man, who had got stuck trying to carry the trunk upstairs. Both rolled down the steps, but in the meantime the tenants fled by the fire escape. The damage was slight.

It Doesn't Matter What You Have Tried, Send for This Free $1.00 Box of My Safe Fat Reducer Today

Positive Proof in Pictures.

The Above Photographs Taken From Life, Showing the Remarkable Reduction of Flesh by Means of Kellogg's Safe Fat Reducer.

Free, positively free, a $1.00 box of Kellogg's Safe Fat Reducer, to every sufferer from fat, just to prove that it actually reduces you to normal, does it safely, and builds up your health at the same time. I want to send you without a cent of expense on your part this $1.00 package of what I am free to call a really wonderful fat reducer.

My treatment is prepared scientifically. It does not stop or hinder digestion; on the contrary, it promotes proper digestion and assimilation of food, which 99 fat people in a hundred haven't got, and that's why they are fat.

I will tell you why you are fat if you will send for this free package of my treatment. I can tell you a good many things about your fat which you probably never knew about and ought to know.

When I tell you here what my treatment can do I speak from hard-shelled experience, not from my own, but from the experiences of others who have tried it almost everything from starvation to violent exercise and drugs and have failed until they tried and used my treatment.

Loses 62 Pounds; Thanks God For It.

Further Proof of Wonderful Strength-Giving Effects of Kellogg's Treatment.

Mrs. S. E. Carter of Tracy, Ky., lost 62 pounds of flesh and says she thanks God for the great blessing the treatment brought her.

"I feel better than at any time in fifteen years," she writes. "My weight at this time is 148 pounds.

"Very soon I began to feel beyond all doubt that I was really losing as fast as was best. I weighed at commencement 210 pounds, as you can well see by my photos.

"I shall ever be grateful to you, and thankful to God, that I found the right remedy on first trial.

"You can use my name when you want to. Anyone that wants to hear what I have to say in regard to such a great blessing will please write me and I will answer all letters."

Lost 30 Pounds In 30 Days.

Mr. R. J. Richardson of Belckow, Mo., writes:

"I have already taken two months' treatment. I never fail to recommend your treatment to any fat person I see, for it surely does the work. I got a month's treatment and I lost just thirty pounds in thirty days."

"Ohio's Fat Boy" In 70 Days Loses 189 Pounds.

"Prof. F. J. Kellogg. My Dear Sir: Your Safe Fat Reducer is all and more than you ever claimed for it. My weight today, after ten weeks' treatment, is 285 pounds, a loss of 189 pounds, as I weighed 474 pounds when I began with the Safe Fat Reducer. I never felt so well before, not even in 1895, when I was in hard training as a professional bicyclist and riding partner of Baby Bliss. The reduction has been natural and gradual, and has at no time interfered with my regular daily duties or caused me the slightest inconvenience in any way. The action of my heart is strong and regular, and I have got rid of that 'smothered up' feeling which bothers all excessively fat people. My breathing is easy and I feel strong and active, and lighter on my feet than I have been for years.

"Please send me another supply of your Safe Fat Reducer, as I am about out.

"Very truly yours, J. H. Beehle, Jr., 607 Cedar Street, Canton, Ohio."

101½ Pounds Gone!

The remarkable case of Miss Artie Adams of Shelby, Ohio, is illustrated in her own words:

"When I look back to the time before I took your wonderful obesity cure I do not see how I stood it. My weight is now 103½ pounds, and I have lost just 101½ pounds. I can hardly believe that there has been such a difference in my feelings and appearance. But, oh, how thankful I am that I found a cure for my awful burden of fat, in Kellogg's Safe Fat Reducer. I can hardly realize that I weigh now only 103½ pounds. You can use my letter as a testimonial if you wish."

Cures Prominent Nurse Of Terrible Fat

Clara Elizabeth Doolittle, nurse, for over fifteen years in America's best hospitals, including New York City and homeopathic hospitals of New York, praises the Kellogg Safe Fat Reducer.

"When I commenced treatment with Safe Fat Reducer I weighed 200 pounds; my chest measure was 42 inches, waist measure 32 inches and hips 48 inches.

"For four months I have been losing in weight constantly and naturally and with no ill effects, and I am feeling much better.

"Today I weigh 148 pounds. My chest measure is 37 inches, waist measure 28 inches and hips 40 inches.

"I cannot speak too highly of Mr. Kellogg and the great work he is doing for fat-burdened humanity." Clara Elizabeth Doolittle, Box 63, Tekonsha, Mich.

Leaves No Wrinkles.

You should have no fear, after being reduced by Kellogg's Safe Fat Reducer that your loss in weight will result in wrinkles, as is usually the case with so many treatments used for flesh reduction.

Free $1.00 Package Coupon

This coupon is good for a $1.00 package of Kellogg's Safe Fat Reducer, if sent with ten cents in silver or stamps to help cover postage and packing, and as evidence of good faith and if you can honestly say that you have never used this treatment before. Only one package will be sent, by mail in plain wrapper, to each person. Also testimonials will be sent from hundreds who have been greatly reduced. CASSIDY'S TESTIMONY TO FINANCE BOARD IS READ AT TRIAL TO-DAY

That Attorney James T. Cassidy, who, with former President of the Common Council Leo F. McCullough, is on trial in the Superior Court, charged with conspiracy to defraud and larceny from the city of Boston in a book deal, had admitted that he had made out a bill of $200 for a set of Massachusetts Reports, was to-day read from stenographic notes taken during the hearing held by the late Finance Commission by James W. Mudge. Mudge was the official stenographer of the Finance Commission.

He read from his notes his report of Cassidy's examination before the Finance Commission last December. Part of the examination follows:

Q.—Have you ever sold any property to Leo F. McCullough? A.—No.

Q.—Did you have a set of law books which you sold? A.—Yes. I sold them to Little, Brown & Co. about two years ago.

Q.—What were those law books? A.—A set of Massachusetts Reports.

Q.—Was any one beside yourself interested in the sale? A.—No; they were my books.

Q.—Where did you get them? A.—I bought them from the Henry F. Naphen estate for $200, together with some office furniture. I worked in Mr. Naphen's office previous to his death.

Q.—Did you ever sell a set of Massachusetts Reports to Leo F. McCullough? A.—I don't remember having done so.

Had Only One Set.

Q.—Did you ever have more than one set of Massachusetts Reports? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever make out a bill to Leo F. McCullough, president of the Common Council, for $200 for one set of Massachusetts Reports? A.—I might have.

At this point Wilfred H. Whitcomb, attorney for Cassidy, objected to the reading of several questions from the stenographer to which Cassidy answered before the Finance Commission: "I do not care to answer." Judge Schofield overruled the attorney's objection, saying: "The questions and answers may be read. It is for the jury to draw its own inference from them."

Cassidy's attorney took an exception to this ruling.

Q.—Did you make out a bill to Mr. McCullough for $200 for one set of Massachusetts Reports. A.—Yes.

Q.—Why did you make out such a bill? A.—I don't care to state.

Q.—Why? A.—Because the relations of attorney and client existed between Mr. McCullough and myself.

Asked to Sign Bill.

Q.—Who asked you to sign it? A.—Mr. McCullough.

Q.—Was the $200 paid to you? A.—No.

Q.—And, therefore, the bill was false on its face; wasn't it? A.—Yes, so far as that goes.

Q.—Did you get any money out of this transaction? A.—Not a cent.

Q.—Do you know if anyone else got $200 from the city of Boston as the result of that bill? A.—I had an idea that some one did.

Q.—Who? A.—I don't care to state.

Stenographer Mudge was cross-examined by James Maguire, senior counsel for Cassidy. He admitted that in several instances he crossed out words and phrases immediately after writing them. He said this was because the shorthand characters were slightly imperfect, or because he had misunderstood what the witness said. In most cases the words and phrases were rewritten and immediately followed the characters which had been crossed out.

Cross-examined by Lawyer Feeney, counsel for McCullough, Mudge said he had inserted words in his notes the day after the witnesses testified and that he depended only on his memory when he made the additions.

PROFESSOR IS SIBERIA EXILE

MOSCOW, May 14.—The trial of the members of the local social democratic organization came to an end here to-day. Eighteen of the prisoners were sentenced to perpetual exile in Siberia and twenty others to be imprisoned in a fortress for terms varying from one to three and a half years.

The exiles include Professor Rochkoff of the University of Moscow, whose connection with the party for a number of years has been a mystery to the police. The authorities were aware that one of the most competent members of the central committee resided permanently in Russia, but they never identified this man with the noted university authority on Russian history.

When Professor Rochkoff was betrayed by his own carelessness he went to St. Petersburg instead of fleeing abroad, and continued his activity under a false passport for four years before he was arrested in 1908.

BOY BITTEN BY DOG SENT HOME

Three-year-old Thomas M. Hanley of No. 90 West Eighth street, who with seven-year-old Michael Nea of No. 65 was bitten by a bulldog thought to be mad, was today sent to his home from the Carney Hospital. The little fellow is recovering rapidly from his injuries, and it is believed by the physicians that he will suffer no permanent effects.

The dog created a panic in South Boston, running wild and snapping at scores of people as well as biting the children. While a squad of police, under Sergeant Hazlett, were hunting the animal, George Orr, a young man, cornered it in the cellar of No. 112 West Ninth street and killed it with an axe. Later a soap peller stole the carcass, and the authorities will be unable to tell whether the dog had rabies.

The Hanley child was playing in the street near his home when he was bitten and thrown to the street. As the child fell the terrier sprang at his throat, but a passerby gave the dog a vigorous kick and saved the child's life.

PLAN RECEPTION TO LADY ABERDEEN

The visit of Lady Aberdeen to Boston this summer will receive formal as well as hospitable attention. At a meeting of the Providence Club a committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements. She will be tendered a reception at the Hotel Somerset on the afternoon of June 8, and later a public meeting will be held in Faneuil Hall on June 9 she will explain the progress which has been made in Ireland in the fight against tuberculosis. Mayor Hibbard will introduce Governor Draper as the presiding officer. A. Shuman is chairman and Edward F. McSweeney is secretary of the general committee.

ESCAP EAS RUNAWAY LEAPS OVER FENCE

City Paymaster Philip B. Dallinger and Patrolman McKeown of the East Cambridge police station had a narrow escape from serious injury in a runaway on Prescott street driveway when the horse dashed half a mile before jumping a four-foot fence, dragging the carriage over after him. A quarter of a mile further on he tried to leap a gate and the carriage was overturned. The horse ran a mile further before being caught.

THOMAS HANLEY, NEARLY KILLED BY A MAD DOG

QUEEN FOE OF SUFFRAGISTS

LONDON, May 14.—Queen Alexandra does not believe in "woman's rights." Her Majesty let it be known through Princess Louise, who at the opening of the Nurses' Congress said:

"Queen Alexandra has the fullest sympathy in your work. She feels it is work women can do. Some women nowadays try to be like men, but nursing is work men cannot do."

The late Queen Victoria had pronounced views about woman's proper sphere. In a letter to the King of the Belgians she wrote:

"We women are not made for governing, and if we are good women we must dislike these masculine occupations."

In a letter to Sir Theodore Martin Her Majesty wrote:

"The Queen is anxious to enlist everyone who can speak or write to join in checking this mad, wicked folly of women's rights, with all its attendant horrors, on which her poor, feeble sex is bent, forgetting every sense of womanly propriety. Lady —— ought to get a good whipping. It is a subject which makes the Queen so furious she cannot contain herself. God created men and women different; let them remain each in their own position.

"Woman would become the most hateful, heartless and disgusting of human beings were she allowed to unsex herself. And where would be the protection which man was intended to give the weaker sex?"

ADONIS POLICEMEN LOSE BATHING JOBS

NEW YORK, May 14.—No more "Gibson cops" for Coney Island. Commissioner Bingham promulgated an order to-day which will bring sadness to the handsome young bluecoats who anticipated a season by the seashore, where the glad waves lapsed in sympathetic forms encased in clinging bathing suits. Incidentally it may engender suspicion and distrust in the bosoms of seventy wives. A detail of seventy policemen has been assigned to the Coney Island station. All were married and have been on the force ten years or more.

THE SMILE.

The person that never smiles is to be pitied. There is no disease with burning pain in the head when the countenance wears a smile. The smile indicates a happy mood—shows that the system is in perfect order, that the appetite is good and that the nights are restful and the sleep is refreshing. When there is trouble in the home, in the breast and in the disposition, it is mirrored in the smile that lingers on the face with an indescribable charm. Be filled with health, disease and your soul with disinterestedness. Take a domestic remedy, a 30 days' treatment of Dr. Pierce's Vegetable Compound, 25c. It gives relief to ailments with the following symptoms: headaches, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, constipation, loss of appetite, want of energy and ambitions. If it should not cure you, return empty box and demand your money or a treatment will be sent free. Transform the sad expression of your face, caused by constant pain, into a beaming, happy smile that will win the hearts of all who behold it. Dr. W. R. Borthart, Station R, Cincinnati, Ohio.

We Would Like an Explanation

With raw wool costing from 80 cents to $1.20 a pound (see footnote below)—with linings and trimmings selling at record prices—with rents and lighting costs soaring high in the air—and with skilled journeyman workmanship asking and getting high wages, how is it possible for any tailor to make a real custom suit at any price less than twenty dollars? TAILORS PLEASE ANSWER.

We will gladly publish in our advertising all rational solutions and explanations given in the above questions, as we believe the public to be vitally interested.

Our claim for your patronage is based on our long career of honorable business dealing, and the fact that we set a style pace in our suits at $20 that others find it difficult to follow at $30.

An interview will please us and can do you no harm.

FOOTNOTE—Ordinary summer weight woolens are woven in 12 and 14 ounce weights. Usually 2¼ yards of goods are necessary to make a suit. Figure out for yourself what the raw material for a suit costs—undyed, unspun and unwoven, not mentioning the cost of trimmings and workmanship.

"CINDERELLAS" QUICK TO TAKE CHALLENGE! STILL MORE ENTRIES

Well the Cinderella Foot Editor of the BOSTON AMERICAN put his foot in it with a vengeance.

No, he didn't put his feet into the contest as an entry. As a matter of fact, the Cinderella Editor's foot is size eight, which would barley be eligible in a small-foot contest.

But he put his foot in it in a slang sense. For he hinted the other day that the reason he had no candidates so far from either Brookline or East Boston was doubtless because the girls out there did not have small feet.

Bang!—in comes a two and one-half from East Boston right away.

Bang! bang!—in comes two entries from Brookline. One is a two and one-half. The other is a tiny one and one-half. Both feet, or rather both girls entering the contest live in the same street in Brookline, too. What street? That's telling.

Entries Still Piling In.

The Cinderella Editor takes off his hat most respectfully and apologizes to the Brookline and East Boston feet. But he is glad they are entered. The cities every district represented, and the more feet the merrier.

More and more entries came in yesterday, and more are coming in to-day. You can see by the accompanying photographs, taken at the Cinella Studio, No. 58 Temple place, what pretty feet they are.

Some of the girls and women are of pretty fair size, too, weighing 130 and 140 pounds. It's a wonder how they ever get about on such tiny footsies. But they certainly do. They come tripping into the BOSTON AMERICAN office on their twos and ones, and even their thirteens, as merrily as though they had fours and fives to walk on.

Just for the information of those who are not yet familiar with the terms of the contest the Cinderella Editor will explain again.

There are four prizes. They are offered by the BOSTON AMERICAN for the smallest and prettiest foot, as follows:

First—A golden slipper inlaid with jewels.

Second—A silver scrolled slipper.

Third—$25 in cash.

Then there is a fourth and a separate prize. This is nothing less than a place in "A Stubborn Cinderella" company, now playing at the Colonial Theatre. This offer is made by Manager Arthur Houghton of the company, on behalf of Mort. H. Singer, proprietor of the production.

Three Judges to Decide.

The contest is open till next week Thursday, May 20, for entries. Then a board of three competent judges will select from all the entries the thirty best to qualify.

From these thirty the judges will name the three winners of the two cash prizes and the $25 cash prize offered by the BOSTON AMERICAN.

From the same thirty Manager Houghton will name his choice for a member of "A Stubborn Cinderella" company.

Fill out the accompanying entry blank and bring it to the Cinderella Editor of the BOSTON AMERICAN at No. 82 Summer street. Make an outline drawing of your foot and bring that, too. Or you can have the outline drawing made at this office. The Cinderella Editor will also explain about having the foot photographed. Contestants must be sixteen years old or over, and at least five feet in height.

CARDINAL'S AID TO CUMMINGS

DUBLIN, May 14.—A sensation has been created here and in all parts of the country by a strong denunciation of the A. O. H. in Ireland which has just been issued by Cardinal Logue. The cardinal's criticisms are directed against the organization of the A. O. H. in Ireland which is under the control of the Board of Erin. This is the body which refuses to affiliate with the American wing of the order, now represented here on a mission of attempted unity by National President Matthew Cummings and Father Phillip O'Donnell of Boston.

In his letter Cardinal Logue says that in some places the Hibernian society is a pest and practices cruel tyranny, its members indulging in drinking and dancing and compelling people by force to join the organization, through threats of boycott and even personal violence. He forbids the priests from this time on to give absolution to those guilty of such practices.

This condemnation of the Board of Erin, A. O. H., by Cardinal Logue, may be regarded as a victory for the mission of President Cummings of the American A. O. H. and his fellow-envoy, Father O'Donnell. The Board of Erin leaders insisted in the recent conferences held in Dublin, that theirs is the parent body, and as such is empowered to adopt and shape the policy of the order in the present political struggle which is being carried on by the Irish parliamentary party, and the United Irish League.

The American envoys claimed that the organization should not be in politics, but should adhere strictly to its mission as a purely Irish Catholic fraternal and charitable organization, subject to the authorities of the church in all its proceedings.

The interdict of Cardinal Logue is the strongest indorsement the mission of Matthew Cummings and Father O'Donnell has yet received.

YANKEES BUY FINE PAINTINGS

LONDON, May 14.—A goodly number of paintings from the collection made by the late Justice Day, which was sold at Christie's, were purchased by American dealers.

The 123 paintings disposed of brought over $375,000.

A small picture by a modern Dutch painter, Mathieu Maris, called "Four Mills," brought ~17,325, a big price for a canvas of scarcely two-thirds of a square foot; while the same artist's "Feeding Chickens," not much bigger, brought $15,750. Not many years ago it fetched less than $150.

The chief American purchasers were Scott, Fovier & Co., who secured Corot's "Woodcutters" for $7,250, the same artist's "Village de Coubron" for $9,000, and his "Souvenir d'Italie" for $4,750. The same firm obtained the best of the Duveens, "Berde de Lobre," for $9,000.

Knoedler bought Harpignie's "Solitude," paying $9,000, which is the English record price for a work by this venerable artist, and two other Harpignies.

Reinhard of Chicago purchased the most important of the eight examples of A. Mauve, paying $12,500 for the "Troupeau De Moutons," which Day bought for $7,500 in 1888.

BRAKEMAN, THIEF, KILLED

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—Caught in the act of breaking open a freight car of the Adams Express Company on the Pennsylvania Railroad and refusing to halt when commanded to do so by Thomas McCaughey, a special policeman, Frederick Zimmerman, a brakeman, was shot dead early to-day.

DISCOVER NEW MULLINS CLEW

That important discoveries in connection with the murder of Annie Mullins in Arlington have just come to them and that the government's case against Peter Delorey, the Somerville butcher, and James Manzi, the Manchester, N. H., barber, has been strengthened, the police of Cambridge to-day admit.

State Detective Byrnes and Charles E. Preble of Station 4, Cambridge, are to-day conducting a careful investigation in Arlington, Burlington, Billerica and Lowell. They expect to be gone all day.

Lieutenant Herbert Gordon and Sergeant John J. Carney of the North Cambridge police are working in the Greek colonies in the South End, Boston, and in Roxbury, and this afternoon they went to Manchester, N. H.

While the officials were finishing their work on the case against Chester Jordan the clew came to them which they are now developing, but it was they in such form that they could not actively work on it. Since then quiet work has been done getting the clue in form and the energy with which the detectives are starting out today leads to the belief that the State will press for an early trial next Fall of the two men who are prisoners in the East Cambridge jail. District Attorney John J. Higgins, who has been in Jamaica recuperating since the Jordan trial closed, is due to return to his office a week from Monday. At that time he will take personal charge of the officers now working on the Mullins murder mystery.

THOSE NEWEST AND CRAZY DANCES. The fever for sensationalism and how it may be stopped is told in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

GUNS READY IN PARIS STRIKE

PARIS, May 14.—A Maxim gun was to-day wheeled across the Place de Lopera and placed where it can shoot down the postal and telegraph strikers who threaten to "make through blood to victory."

M. Pauzen, the leader of the strikers, declared to-day that he stood willing to lead a revolt and to use his body to stop the first bullet. In fiery speeches strike leaders urged the appointment of revolutionary committees to appraise the goods in shops so as to be able to make a fair disposition of the loot.

The failure of the Deputies to support the strike has excited the firebrands, who are agitated by the apparent failure of their campaign.

The refusal of the Confederated Trade Unions to declare a general strike left the postoffice employes completely at the mercy of the government.

The government's rigorous policy scared many of the strikers back into their places and at the opening of the offices to-day postoffice employes of all grades were at work throughout the city, although it is still deemed advisable to have soldiers guard many of the branch offices in outlying districts.

More than 10 per cent of the employes of all the branches, including railway and postal clerks, have gone out. The government announced that only a few of the strikers would be taken back.

WILKIE SIZES UP TAFT HOME

BEVERLY, May 14.—Chief Wilkie of the famous United States Secret Service Police came to Beverly to-day in an auto from Boston to look over this city and make arrangements to guard President Taft during his stay in the "Summer White House."

Chief Wilkie arrived alone and at once called on Police Chief Ferguson and Mayor Trowt. He inspected the cottage which President Taft and family will occupy this Summer and also the executive rooms in the Cabot Building on Mason street where work of the national administration will be conducted while Mr. Taft is away from Washington.

Chief Wilkie also looked over the country around Beverly. He got an idea of the roads by which it is reached and over which and may must go. President Taft will be guarded day and night while he is here. The vigilant secret service men will be on duty constantly.

RAILROAD VISITORS AT REAL CLAMBAKE

Eight hundred delegates to the national convention of the Order of Railway Conductors and members of their families left the South station on a ten-car "special" to-day for Crescent Park, Providence, where they were treated to a New England clambake. On the train, they were the guests of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. The entertainment at Crescent Park was provided by Division 370, O. R. C., of Providence.

KERMIT LOST IN THE WILDS

NAIROBI, British East Africa, May 14.—It was learned here early to-day that Kermit Roosevelt lost his way from his father's camp near Machakos last Friday, and spent an entire night alone on horseback, riding through a region unknown to him.

On Saturday morning he turned up at Kiu, a station on the railway, inquiring the way to camp. He was given the desired direction.

The region in which Kermit Roosevelt is reported to have been lost for a night is Africa lies between the Athi River and the Uganda Railway. Kiu, where he finally came upon signs of civilization, is a town about fifty miles below Nairobi and thirty or forty miles southeast of Machakos.

There is an old cart road from Machakos to Kiu, but otherwise the country and the region thereabouts is very sparsely inhabited by natives of the Wakamba tribe, a peaceful people engaging chiefly in agriculture.

MAN SEEN IN COMPANY OF STRANGLED WOMAN IS SOUGHT BY POLICE

Wood's story, when questioned by the police.

Wood's story, in the minds of the police, is the concluding link in the chain of evidence, proving that the woman was the victim of a jealous man.

Lurking Behind Tree.

They assume, from the evidence which is now in their possession, that this man went to the scene of the crime early in the evening, prepared to waylay Miss Regester on her way home. They do not believe that the meeting was pre-arranged.

When the car came to a stop and Miss Regester alighted, it is believed that the slayer was about 150 yards down the road, lurking behind a tree. As she passed him, it is now believed, he stepped out, and spoke to her.

The police assume that she knew the man intimately, and that she had no fear of him. Together they walked down the road, keeping well in the centre of the highway. That the man, up to the time that he was met by Woods and Stark, had not broached the subject that had brought him to that spot, is evident, the officers maintain, by the fact that the couple were not quarrelling as they passed on their way to the lane.

After they had left the two boys behind, it is surmised, and as they swung from the road into the lane the slayer made his attack, evidence of this being found in the woman's gloves lying on the roadway. She had evidently dropped them when her assailant grasped her by the throat and commenced to strangle her.

After he had dragged the woman to the spot where her body was found, the man fled down the road, towards the car tracks. It is believed he is the man who rode in town on the last car.

Woods and Stark place the time at which they saw the man and woman at about 10 o'clock. They had been canoeing on Mashaisug Pond, near the Sherwood Ice-houses, and had hauled their canoe from the water just at 9:50 o'clock. Woods places this as the time, because he pulled out his watch to note it.

Cut Across Field.

They did not take the lane to Reservoir avenue, but cut across the field back of the Sherwood Ice Company's barn. As it is about a five-minute walk, they came to the roadway, and upon the man and woman, at approximately 9:55 o'clock.

An additional clew was furnished the police by Mrs. Della Treavy, who conducts a small grocery and provision store on Reservoir avenue. Her house is the nearest one to the Jewish cemetery.

She says that she closed her store at 9:15 o'clock and immediately went upstairs to her room. She had been asleep but a short time when she was awakened by the barking of her dogs in the barn. It is her belief that the time was about the same as that when Miss Regester is thought to have been slain.

Dead Nine Hours.

The condition of the body, when found at 7.15 o'clock Tuesday morning indicated that the girl had been dead about nine hours. This would place the time of the murder about 10 p. m. Monday, or twenty minutes after Miss Regester alighted from the Reservoir avenue car on her way from the dressmaker's. The body and limbs were in a natural position, the murderer obviously having laid out his victim following the attack.

Chief Inspector Horton and several of the inspectors working on the case expressed their belief that the assailant was actuated by a spirit of revenge to attempt mistreatment, and when Miss Regester resisted he became oblivious to mercy or reason and increased his pressure on her throat until he strangled her to death.

There were twenty-one finger wounds on the girl's throat. Nearly all were on the right side, the lesser number and those showing the greatest penetration being on the left and made by the thumb. This, Chief Horton says, indicates that the murderer had his left hand at the girl's throat, using his right to wield the weapon with which he struck or for other purposes after Miss Regester had lost consciousness.

Slayer Went Over Fence.

Deputy Chief Nickerson and reporters established to-day the direction taken by the murderer in his flight. He climbed the picket fence, which is fifteen feet away from the place where the body lay, jumped into the cemetery grounds, ran across to the Reservoir avenue fence, a distance of about seventy feet, and doubtless tried to open a gate in the wrought iron entrance.

The gate, set in high masonry, was padlocked. A bench rested against the picket fence, and using this as a step the murderer jumped to the sidewalk of hard earth.

The imprint of three nails in the heels of the murderer's shoes was found on each of the fences which he climbed. Marks on the first fence indicate that he climbed it at top speed, slipped and struck his bloodstained hand on the top railing. This accident caused him to drop his handkerchief, which is now in the possession of the police.

Closer examination of the handkerchief reveals that it is not made of cotton. It is a linen handkerchief with a hemstitched border half an inch deep, and could not would be bought by a man in comfortable circumstances who had an eye for the niceties of life. There are no initials or markings to furnish a clue to the name of the owner.

Suitor Keeps Up Hunt.

Ernest H. Allen of Hope Valley, divorced husband of Mrs. Regester, and his friend Charles Douglass, the suitor of the young woman, met at the funeral and in their common sorrow became friends. Now they are working together to help the police to find the murderer of the young woman. The wedding was to have taken place next month. To-day Allen said:

"The blow of my wife's death leaves a wound in my heart that will never be cured until the day of my death. I always loved Laura and even when she had severed the divorce my regard for her did not change. Her engagement to Mr. Douglass wounded me deeply, but I never felt any resentment toward him, and accepted the new wedding as resignedly as I could. Even though Laura was to be another's wife, I loved her. Since the divorce, we have had a talk with Mr. Douglass, and our feelings are now those of brother. The same woman was our sweetheart, both of us and now we are working together in aiding the police to run down the murderer."

Douglass searched every foot of the field near the cemetery where the body was found. To-day he was on the scene of the crime in the early morning. He said:

"I have not been of my work since the tragedy. I have remained with Laura's parents trying to comfort and help them. I went over the ground foot by foot seeking for something tangible in the way of a clew—a button, scrap of cloth, a shred of cloth, anything which might in some way lead to the discovery of the murderer.

"All of my walks have been fruitless. My investigations so far have come to nothing. I have a feeling that I will find something in the field which will lead to the discovery and arrest of Laura's slayer."

MILLINERY SALE ATTRACTING MANY

There is a big millinery sale going on in Boston and everybody interested in women's hats and trimmings has found the announcement by Felix Kornfeld of Nos. 65-67 Summer street possessed of a great deal of interest. The stock, valued at $75,000, in that establishment must be disposed of at once to make room for extensive alterations in the wholesale department, and seasonable goods are sold, it is stated, at less than half price. There are many bargains announced both in the basement and on the main floor. The house announces it will fill mail orders.

MORE ARMY OFFICERS IF NEW BILL PASSES

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Senator Warren of Wyoming, chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs, has introduced a bill providing that whenever any cadet has finished three years of his course at the United States Military Academy the succeeding appointment may be made from his congressional district or at large in accordance with the existing law. The effect of this bill, if passed, will be to authorize every Senator and Congressman to make appointments to West Point every three instead of every four years, as at present. The measure is designed to provide additional officers for the army. If passed, the number of cadets will be increased 25 per cent.

WHAT ANÆMIA IS

HOW A WELL DEFINED CASE AT LYNN WAS CURED.

Under Tonic Treatment Health and Strength Were Restored.

What anæmia is, how to recognize it and the value of the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be known by the mother of every growing girl.

Anæmia is simply lack of blood.

It is one of the most common and dangerous diseases with which growing girls suffer.

It is common because the blood so often becomes impoverished during development, when girls are too frequently allowed to overwork and suffer from lack of exercise. It is dangerous because of the stealthiness of its approach, often being well developed before its presence is recognized, and because of its tendency to grow so steadily worse, if not promptly checked, that it may run into consumption.

Mrs. William Clark, of No. 44 Park street, Lynn, Mass., urges every sufferer from anæmia to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Her great faith in them is based upon her own experience.

"Two years ago," she says, "I was so sick with anæmia that I could not walk up stairs. No one can know how I suffered. I was very pale and had severe headaches with dizzy spells. I was so short of breath that I couldn't go up stairs. My stomach was very weak, food didn't agree with me and I had but little appetite.

"I became discouraged with my doctor's treatment as he did not help me at all. Finally I decided that I would take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills instead. I began to feel better by the time I had taken a few boxes and was soon able to eat heartily. I gained in strength until my health was restored."

The treatment of anæmia with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is as certain as anything in medical science. They act directly on the blood, which they purify and build up to the normal strength.

They have also cured rheumatism, after-effects of the grip and fevers, stomach trouble, nervous breakdown, sick headaches, St. Vitus' dance and neuralgia.

A booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," will be sent free to any sufferer with anæmia upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

HENRIETTA CROSMAN TO BE 'SOLD OUT'

NEW YORK, May 14.—Henrietta Crosman is to be sold out lock and baggage on May 19. An auctioneer will handle bric-a-brac, rare pieces of furniture, swords, pictures, books, costumes, even kimonos, before the public in Darling's auction rooms, 1382 Broadway, on that day. Not even the keepsakes of the actress are to be spared.

The collection is variously estimated at between $50,000 and $75,000 in value. The prompt locks of Miss Crosman's plays, manuscripts, souvenirs, autographed photographs of famous persons, curiosities, furnishings, even books of childhood—"Mother Goose" things and the like—will go under the hammer.

Unique and Pathetic.

The intimate character of many of the things make the display unique and pathetic. There are the costumes of the "Christian Pilgrim," the failure of which may be responsible for the bankruptcy and the auction. Even the brave trousers worn in "The play by Miss Crosman fame from a line awaiting the bidders. Not far from these are the nasty nothings worn by the actress in "Mistress Nell"—the success and the failure trousers—swinging together in the musty salesroom. Just under them, piled high upon a bed, are the very comforpanes and bedspreads under which Miss Crosman has been wont to slumber.

A few feet away hang two silk kimonos, one a pale blue and the other yellow, and there is no doubt that each has seen service.

A painting of General Thomas, "The Rock of Chickamauga," looks down on fifty pounds of refined makes. A library of perhaps 800 selected volumes, many of them rebinding to costly bindings, is ranged under stchings. cits, pen sketches and pictures of Miss Crosman herself. Two volumes of Boydell's Shakespearian pictures, as large as the top of an office desk, lie hard by, and there are cabinets filled with silver, curios, fatches, bits of old lace and a thousand other things.

Saved Personal Letters.

Oak settees and chairs, mahogany tables and sideboards, gilt furniture tapestried, a screen in leaded glass, china dishes, cut crystal, rugs and old quaint tables lies about without regard to order, sequence or selection.

When the collection was first taken over by the receiver, Ezra Prentice, in many of the drawers and cabinets were personal letters which had been overlooked in the evidently hasty packing up. These have been collected at the auction rooms and placed in a trunk awaiting Miss Crosman's disposal.

MRS. M'VEAGH MUST PAY.

CHICAGO, May 14.—In spite of protests that Mrs. Franklin MacVeagh, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, had nothing to do with the failure of Louis Lipski to receive cash for an order she submitted for a social function at the MacVeagh home, Municipal Judge Uhlir today decided that she was liable for the debt.

NAVY NOW ASKS FOR AEROPLANES

WASHINGTON, May 14.—"Aeroplanes for the navy." This is the new demand of the progressive element among naval officers. The action of England, France, Germany and Italy, expecting the last named, in attaching aeroplanes or balloons to warships has aroused the naval officers of this country, and they are doing their best to move Congress to action.

CUSTOMS OFFICERS ARE UNDER ARREST

NEW YORK, May 14.—The three assistant United States weighers accused of being implicated in the cheese and fig importation scandals unearthed by Collector Loeb were arrested by the United States marshal for the Eastern district in Brooklyn today. They are Joseph Quinn, Thomas C. Giddings and Joseph McGahan. They were indicted by the federal Grand Jury in this district last Tuesday.

NEWEST BOOK: 'IN HELL WITH BEEF TRUST'

WASHINGTON, May 14. — "Twenty Years in Hell with the Beef Trust" is the enthusiastic title of a neatly printed, paper-bound book of 300 pages which all the members of Congress in both Houses have just received in their mail. It is printed by Roger B. Shiel, of Indianapolis, Ind.

Mr. Shiel is a livestock dealer in Indianapolis who for many years has handled about $3,000,000 or $5,000,000 worth of livestock annually. He has been engaged in a fight on the beef trust for a decade and more, and has spent hundreds of thousands on it. His book is only one feature of the fight he has been making. He has been personally acquainted with the heads of the packing industry in the last three generations, and he writes of their methods without any reservations. One cheerful story, given with names and details, is about a method the packers used to have of underweighing stock, as the sugar importers sometimes do.

A sample shipment of 100 fine large hogs was traced by Mr. Shiel from Illinois to Boston. When it got to Boston, twenty-three of the hogs that had started from Illinois had been taken out and an equal number of small pigs substituted. It was done in the Buffalo stock yards, and on going further into the mystery he found that this was a regular system of substitution by which the correct number of hogs was always preserved, but the weight was greatly decreased.

Mr. Shiel went to the right authority, stated his case, showed that he was prepared to prove it and got his claim for such shrinkage on this and a long list of other shipments paid at once without demur.

PLANT TREE FOR MARION CRAWFORD

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 14.—The memories of F. Marion Crawford, Congressman Daniel L. D. Granger, Edward H. Magill, educator, and Alfred Metcalf, for many years a member of the Providence School Committee, were honored today in the Arbor Day observance by the planting of trees in Roger Williams Park by school children. Every tree was planted by a different school and dedicated with appropriate exercises. The Crawford tree was for Japanese girls, and was planted by students of the English High School.

PAYS $3,000 FOR A NEW NEXT TO TAFTS

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Mrs. Frank B. Vrooman, daughter of General John C. Black of the Civil Service Commission, has paid $3,000 for a new next that occupied by Mrs. William H. Taft and members of her family in St. John's Episcopal Church of this city.

WHY DID SHE LEAVE HIM? Read in the SUNDAY AMERICAN the romance of a Baltimore belle and the millions that vanished.

WM. ROCKEFELLER BACK FROM ABROAD

NEW YORK, May 14.—William Rockefeller, brother of John D. Rockefeller, arrived home today on the Lusitania. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter-in-law. "We have been abroad for four weeks, chiefly in Paris and London," he said. His was told about the tariff situation, in which he seemed to be greatly interested, but would only comment on the matter to the extent of saying that it was a difficult thing to devise a tariff to suit everybody.

SPRING SUITS

$12.50 to $35.00
SPRING OVERCOATS
$15.00 to $30.00

Men often say to the salesman: "I can put out—(so much)—for a suit. What is the best you can give me for that money? What would you do yourself?"

The descriptions that follow are of three beautiful sack suits that cannot be surpassed for the price offered. Each is conservative and elegant; the kind that clothing men who KNOW would pick out for themselves.

$30.00—A soft, dove-gray, all wool worsted. The tone is very delicate and pleasing. It has hand-made collar and front; medium roll lapel, three buttons, plain sleeves, plain pockets, mohair lining. Trousers are of the full, fashionable cut.

$35.00—Dark, soft finished, olive worsted, with almost invisible stripe of dark purple; long, rounded lapels; three-button, moderately cut-away front; plain, stylish finish. A simple suit, in perfectly good taste, and yet the very height of fashion.

$22.00—A mode-gray with brownish tint and that hardly noticeable stripe of deeper shade; a simple cuff sleeve, plain pockets; long lapel, serge lining, etc.; a suit with a good deal of character.

Turks Clash Over Killing of Foes.

CONSTANTINOPLE — Pacification versus persecution are the policies in the new Turkey, now in conflict, and Sultan Mehmed V. is to-day on the verge of a complete break with his ministers. Hilmi Pasha is the instrument through which the sovereign hoped to put an end to the bloody punishment which has been meted out to the ringleaders in the reactionary movements. Hilmi Pasha told the Sultan he would endeavor to use his high office to force gradually the young Turks into less drastic measures. The Young Turk leaders are ready to assert their right to wholesale hangings, declaring that these will have a salutary effect upon the undercurrent of insurrection.

Mrs. Asquith Arouses Ire.

LONDON—The Drapers' Record makes an indignant protest against the use by Mrs. Asquith of the Prime Minister's official residence as a showroom for a Paris costumer. It says it has received a letter from Mrs. Asquith, but as it is marked private it cannot publish it. The letter gives no explanation, and would only increase the "indignation of its readers."

Vienna Welcomes Kaiser.

VIENNA—Emperor William and the Empress arrived here to-day on their war to Berlin. They were met at the station by Emperor Franz Joseph and the members of the Austrian Imperial family with whom they drove to the palace. Crowds lined the street and gave the Kaiser a warm welcome.

$900,000 Goes to Boy.

LONDON—The $900,000 left by Lady William Beresford will go to her twelve-year-old son, William Warren de la Poer Beresford, the only child of her three marriages. Lady William was Lillian Price of New York. Her second husband was the Duke of Marlborough.

No Flyers in England.

LONDON—The Wright aeroplane will be ready in two months. It is probable that the government will have to wait until the Wrights, or some one they have taught, take learners in hand before the machine can be used.

AWFUL RASH ALL OVER BOY'S BODY

Weeping Eczema Kept Spreading on Little Sufferer—A Score of Treatments Prove Dismal Failures—Grateful Father Tells of

CURE ACHIEVED BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"It gives me great pleasure to express my deep gratitude in appreciation of the incalculable benefit that the Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent did my little boy. He had an awful rash all over his body and the doctor said it was eczema. It was terrible and used to water awfully. Any place the water went it would form another sore and it would become crusted. A score or more physicians failed utterly and dismally in their efforts to remove the trouble. Then I was told to use the Cuticura Remedies. So in us Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, and before we had used half the Resolvent I could see a change in him. In about two months he was entirely well. When people see him now they ask, 'What did you get to cure your baby?' and all we can say is, 'It was the Cuticura Remedies.' So in us Cuticuras will always have firm and warm friends. George F. Lambert, 139 West Centre St., Mahaney City, Pa., September 26 and November 4, 1907."

MILLIONS OF PEOPLE

Rely on Cuticura Remedies.

Millions of the world's best people use Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, assisted, when necessary, by Cuticura Resolvent (liquid or pills) for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, for scalp troubles, for baby humiliations, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for baby rashes, itchings and chafings, and many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, as well as for all the purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery. EAMES DROPS $20,000 SUIT

NEW YORK, May 14.—Supreme Court Justice Davis has signed an order of discontinuance in a suit brought by Mme. Emma Eames, the prima donna, against her former husband, Julian Story, the artist. The application was made with the consent of both parties. There was nothing to disclose the nature of the suit, which could not have any connection with the divorce proceedings which were brought in Westchester.

The order, it is understood, refers to the suit begun last August by Mme. Eames against Mr. Story to recover a large amount of personal property which the diva alleged belonged to her, although retained by her former husband. During the divorce proceedings, it is said that Mme. Eames and her husband made an agreement by which he was to deliver to her the personal effects belonging to her in his house at No. 7 Place des Etats Unis, Paris, and at Vallombrosa, Italy. Mme. Eames alleged that Story did not keep this agreement, and began suit against him. The personal property, consisting of souvenirs, wearing apparel, and curios, was valued at $20,000.

The Storys were married in London in 1891. Mme. Eames was born in Shanghai, China, of American parents, in 1869. She began divorce proceedings in January, 1907, and got an interlocutory decree on April 26 following. The papers were ordered sealed.

"MONEY TO BURN."

NEW YORK, May 14.—America has "money to burn," according to the reports made to the National Board of Fire Underwriters at its annual meeting at No. 43 Nassau street. President J. Montgomery O'Hare reports the fire losses of the country for five years as $1,246,002,059.

CLOTHING SALE IS BIG EVENT

Bernard M. Wolf, proprietor of the "My Clothier" establishment, has made arrangements to buy the stock of Hodgdon, Anderson & Merry, one of the oldest manufacturing concerns in its line in the country. Wolf will hold a mammoth sale of garments which are widely known for quality of goods and excellence of workmanship. This event is of more than common interest in Boston's commercial history.

It was more than fifty years ago when George M. Hodgdon, father of the present head of the house of Hodgdon, Anderson & Merry, which has retired from business, started here as a clothing manufacturer. At that time J. Wolf, father of Bernard M. Wolf, began business in Boston as a retail clothier.

In the course of business events after the lapse of half a century the son of the founder of the manufacturing business has arranged to dispose of his stock to the son of the merchant.

Here are two concerns which had their commercial inception more than fifty years ago. That is a long time for any business house to continue in this country and speaks in itself very highly for the character and goods of both. The sale of the stock of high class garments of Hodgdon, Anderson & Merry starts this morning at Wolf's "My Clothier" corner of Hanover and Portland streets.

ARE AMERICANS BARBARIANS?

Professor Ferrero in an article to the SUNDAY AMERICAN says we are not and tells why. His criticism of our social customs in wonderfully interesting.

DOUBTS RIGHT TO DIG COMMON

A decision of Judge Braley of the Supreme Court to-day virtually holds up the work on the Boston end of the Cambridge subway until the right to bore under the Common is passed upon by the full bench of the Supreme Court.

The hearing was on the petition of E. D. Codman and others who seek to restrain the Boston Transit Commission and the city of Boston from running the tube under the Common to a point 200 feet distant from the Park street subway station. They maintain the Common is inviolable.

Corporation Counsel Babson, representing the city, pointed out that the city would be liable if Patrick McGovern, the contractor, to whom the city has awarded the job, held the city to the full terms of the agreement. In consequence his honor held that if he attempted to start the work an injunction would be issued.

In referring the petition to the full Bench of the Supreme Court Judge Braley said that he had no doubt as to the honesty of the plaintiffs' purpose. He realized that they felt any encroachment was in violation of the spirit in which the Common was given to the city, and that by successive encroachments it might pass from existence.

EGGS CAUSE TRAGEDY.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Because Louis Smilowitz, manager of a three-cent restaurant at No. 163 Bleecker street, refused to serve three eggs and a cup of cocoa for twelve cents to-day instead of fifteen, he was attacked by two customers and nearly killed.

BOSTON GETS BIG WAR GAME

Companies of the National Guard of New York will take part with regular troops in manoeuvres in or near Boston in August. It is said the manoeuvres will engage the largest number of men since the Spanish war.

At the New York headquarters of Major General Charles F. Roe, commanding the New York National Guard, it was said that orders were received that two regiments of infantry, one of engineers, two companies of the Signal Corps, and three batteries of field artillery were to be held in readiness for service in August, the nature of the service to be designated by Major-General Wood, commanding the Department of the East.

While the order did not state where the exercises were to take place, it was said the regulars who are certain to participate are the artillerymen garrisoning Forts Andrew, Banks, Revere, Warren, Standish and Heath, near Boston, and perhaps Rodman at New Bedford, Mass. One of the highest ranking officers of the Coast Artillery Corps will probably be in command of the joint forces, which in addition to the troops from New York will also include troops from the New England and other States in this department.

It is also said the Atlantic fleet will take part.

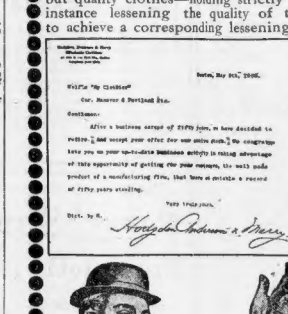
The Greatest Suit Sale Boston's Ever Seen

Hodgdon, Anderson & Merry, Wholesale Clothiers Retire From Business And Sell Us Their Stock

The greatest sale in point of quality—the greatest from a standpoint of value-giving and high-class tailoring—the greatest by long odds because it presents the products of one of the oldest, most favorably known wholesale clothiers in New England. For over fifty years Hodgdon, Anderson & Merry has been a name to conjure with in the clothing world. From Maine to Rhode Island their clothing has been recognized as a standard of excellence and high grade workmanship. They made nothing but quality clothes—holding strictly to the principle that the best is none too good—never in a single instance lessening the quality of their garments to achieve a corresponding lessening in the price.



Boston, May 26th, 1900.

Wolf's "My Clothier"

TWO KINDS OF BETTING ON BILLY PAPKE

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—San Francisco, even money; Los Angeles, 10 to 8; Papke favorite.

This is a tale of two cities in respect to the betting on the Papke-Kelly contest at Coffroth's arena to-morrow.

The partiality of Los Angeles sports toward Papke can be explained. They saw the Illinois Thunderbolt in the most successful and most sensational fight of his career. That was when he made a punching bag of Ketchell, the assassin, knocking him down times out of number and sending him through the ropes occasionally by way of variety.

If a Kelly-Papke contest had been scheduled to follow the Papke-Ketchell affair, the betting against Kelly would have been 2 to 1 or thereabouts. But Papke did not keep up his winning licks. He lost to Ketchell in San Francisco and the Los Angeles fight followers were puzzled.

Then Kelly and Papke met in Los Angeles and it was only owing to Jim Jeffries's large-heartedness that Papke was permitted to spare the honors of a draw.

The Los Angeles partiality of pugilism decided that Papke was in poor condition.

"That's not the man that whipped Ketchell," they said.

Now the Southerners believe that a long rest and careful preparation have put Papke in good shape again. They are doubtful, of course, as to whether he is the tiger he was when he hammered Ketchell to a thoroughly, but they are satisfied he has it in him to dispose of Kelly. That's why they have made him favorite.

Here in San Francisco the sports are puzzled as to how to figure out the chances, so that it is a case of even money and nights betting so far. You will hear someone say that it is a youngster against an old timer, but it's pretty hard to consider the thing from a December and May standpoint, when Kelly is only twenty-six years of age and Papke has three years younger.

There is this to it: Kelly has been fighting two years, while Papke has been only three years at the game, and very frequently it is length of service more than the actual age of the man that tells against the fighter. But there are men and men.

Kelly, if we are to consider him as a veteran at all, is a well-preserved fellow. He has never used the "I was poorly trained" excuse, whereas Papke, during his three short years in the ring, has had as many ups and downs of condition as a fellow who had been before the public in the fighting line for fifteen years.

These are incontrovertible facts, and they prevent the application of the old argument, "Youth will be served."

BRESNAHAN LAID OFF; HURST REINSTATED

NEW YORK, May 14.—John Heydler, acting president of the National League, has suspended Roger Bresnahan, manager of the St. Louis team, for three days for using unbecoming language during the game at Brooklyn Wednesday.

Tim Hurst, the American League umpire, who was suspended by Ban Johnson, president of the American League, as a result of his encounter with Kid Elberfeld at American League Park, New York, last week, was reinstated, and left for the West last night to take up his duties.

DOVEY LEADS POLICE WAR ON GAMBLERS

The local police department, backed by President George Dovey of the Doves and the entire National League, has commenced a crusade against betting at the baseball games which gives promise of ending this menace to the national sport.

Two more arrests were made during the progress of the long game yesterday, and to-day police officers in citizen's attire will be scattered through the bleachers and grand stand, and arrests will be made in every instance where money is wagered.

President Dovey said to-day:

"Baseball has always been the cleanest of professional sports, and we are going to keep it so. Since the organization of the National League, the breath of scandal has touched the game but once, and it is well known that that did not affect the integrity of the players or the management of the clubs.

"In every city there are a lot of gamblers and I regret to say that since the ban was put on open betting on the horse races, this element has turned its attention to baseball.

"I don't need this sort of patronage, and the people who come to our games for the purpose of gambling, will find they are in the wrong pew.

"The National League officials have given this matter serious thought and is in earnest in its efforts to stamp out gambling, before it ever gets a good foothold. Half a dozen arrests have already been made and more will follow.

"It is not a pleasant sight to see a man with a nippers on his wrist being led out of the bleachers or grand stand during a game, but this appears to be the only way to stop gambling, and that is what we propose to do."

RELEASES AND CONTRACTS.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Acting President Heydler of the National League of Baseball Clubs has announced his approval of the following contracts and releases of players.

Contracts—With Chicago, I. C. Higginbotham (contract assigned by St. Louis); with Cincinnati, Thomas Cantwell; with Pittsburg, Alan M. Storke.

Releases—By Chicago to Brooklyn (N. L.) Carl Lundgren; to Washington (A. L.) George R. Browne. By Pittsburg (unconditionally) William J. Duggleby; to Roanoke (S. A. L.) Robert C. Vail; to Wheeling (C. L.) Gus Soffel. By St. Louis to Montgomery (S. L.) Champ Osteen.

NOTES OF 13-INNING GAME

The game was a sort of Marathon affair and the Doves proved the best long distance runners.

It was real baseball from start to finish.

Hits were plentiful and great fielding stunts were pulled off on both sides.

Just after Egan had gone out in the first inning, the staple to which first base is fastened came loose and the game was delayed for a few minutes.

The Reds got a man on the circuit in the very first round. Oakes fouled off about half a dozen good ones and then drove a free pass.

Two double plays by the Reds in two innings shows the kind of luck the Doves had. Of course these plays show good fielding on the part of his teammates was all that saved him.

Dahlen just can't keep out of the error column. He had one more yesterday.

When McLean hits the ball it certainly does go. He had a total of three bases off his bat yesterday.

Bowerman was a busy person in the seventh round as he caught two high fouls.

Johnny Bates relied a little Ty Cobb base running in the seventh inning when he attempted to score on Beaumont's infield hit. Gee! wouldn't the fans have gone crazy if he had gotten away with it.

Bowerman registered an awful kick when Barry was called out on a close decision. It did no good as usual.

* * *

Mr. Clark Griffith was banished from the field in the eighth inning. Griffith protested strenuously against Johnstone's decision that Mitchell was out when he attempted a steal.

At three different times the fans who leave when the home team seems to have no chance to win, got up and waited near the steps for the three out but each time they were forced to resume their places.

Twenty-eight hits for a total of thirty-five leaves with only five runs in the sum total of the work of both teams in the long contest, and indicates that the fielders had a busy day.

Cusack and Johnstone, President Fullam's hired men who are doing the "umpiring" at the local games, should get together and find out just where they are "at." In the eleventh inning, Downey hit a short fly to Beaumont and Mitchell, who had a lead of at least ten feet off third, continued on to the plate and was allowed to score. Bowerman protested to Cusack, who said it was not his place to decide, and Johnstone said the play did not belong to him. Some of the fans suggested a third arbiter to decide plays that neither Cusack or Johnstone want.

Harvard men are not going round with bar chips on their shoulders over the dual meet with Yale at New Haven to-morrow. But while they are not bragging, yet they feel that the Crimson team has a fair chance to beat the Blue. Of course Yale has an exceptionally good team this year. Ordinarily the men on the Crimson team would win a dual meet nine times out of ten.

Everybody says that Yale will win and the difference in points is put anywhere from three to twelve. One of the very enthusiastic supporters of the Cambridge team cannot figure more than 46 points for Harvard. But he is too conservative.

Pooch Donovan, the coach, says his team has a good chance. He realizes that the Yale team is exceptionally strong but he says the Crimson boys are not licked out of their boots by any means, as many declare.

Harvard expects to do well on the track. Foster is going good enough to win the hundred and the furlong sprints. With Blumer, Merrihew, De Seelding and Kelly Harvard has four good quarter milers and expects to win. Harvard concedes the half to Yale as Spitzer is too fast for the Crimson. Yale may get second place with Silliwetzer or Mann.

Herbert Jacques will win the mile and Breese loses and there is a very good chance that he will win in the two mile event although Trainer Marsh may save a Yale man for the long distance race.

Little will win the shotput, but equally sure is Yale in the hammer.

The Harvard team left for New Haven on the ten o'clock train this morning and will stop at the New Haven House. All the men were fitted with new suits with crimson jersey, white pants with crimson side stripes and belts and their letters or numerals according to their events.

The following table shows how a confident Yale man figures it:

	Firsts.	Seconds.	Thirds.
100 yd. dash	H	Y	H
220 yd dash	Y	H	H
440 yd dash	Y	H	H
880 yd. run	H	Y	H
Mile	H	Y	H
2 mi. run	H	Y	H
120 yd. hurdles	H	Y	H
220 yd. hurdles	H	Y	H
Pole vault	H	H	Y
Shotput	Y	H	H
Hammer	Y	H	H
High jump	H	H	Y
Broad jump	Y	H	H

Recapitulation—Yale, 7 firsts, (35); nine seconds, (18); and five thirds, (5); total, 58. Harvard, six firsts, (30); four seconds, (8); and eight thirds, (8); total, 46.

HARVARD SOPHS FAVORITES IN CLASS RACES

The Sophomore Class is the favorite in the class crew races between the Harvard classes on the Charles this afternoon and is picked to win the races. The Sophomores have been rowing in a settled and consistent manner in all the practices and the order of the men has practically remained unchanged. The second year men have developed a clean body with a strong finish, and the catch and reach are both snappy.

The Juniors are looked to to take second place, although the large number of changes and shifts in the crew from time to time have somewhat weakened their prospects. The Juniors are particularly weak on the slides and have not improved much during the weeks of practice.

The Seniors have the weakest crew and are expected to be passed by the other classes. The Seniors have a dangerously high catch which fails to bring out their best power, although there are a number of heavy men among them.

The order of the crews will be:

1906—Stroke, Ellis; 7, Richrede; 6, Haines; 5, Richardson; 4, Crandall; 3, Wood; 2, Tabor; bow, Williams; cox, Edwards.

1910—Stroke, Martin; 7, Hadden; 6, Maxwell; 5, Pratt; 4, Cudahy; 3, Macleod; 2, Frye; bow, Shepley; cox, Atkins.

1911—Stroke, Ettel; 7, Jowett; 6, Neal; 5, Coe; 4, Thompson; 3, Jackson; 2, Ellis; bow Shiffrin; cox, Price.

The race will be over the mile and a half course, starting from the Cottage Farm bridge and ending at a point opposite Exeter street. The start will be at 4.30 o'clock.

WRESTLING BOUTS.

CLEVELAND, May 14.—Otto Suter of Cleveland won the welterweight wrestling championship here to-night from Charles Conkie of Hamilton, Ont. Suter won in straight falls of forty-five and three minutes.

BIG AUTO RACE FROM ATLANTIC TO THE PACIFIC

By J. C. KERRISON.

The road details for the Guggenheim Ocean-to-Ocean Contest are now complete as far West as Pocatello, Idaho and checking stations established.

The checking stations are placed about 75 to 100 miles apart, and are located at the following points: Poughkeepsie, Albany, Fonda, Syracuse, Buffalo, Erie, Cleveland, Toledo, South Bend, Chicago, Bloomington, Ill.; St. Louis, Centralia, Kansas City, Manhattan, Kansas, Oakley, Ellsworth, Limon, Col.; Denver, Cheyenne, Wyo.; Rawlins, Granger, Montpelier, Idaho, and Pocatello.

All these checking stations, except the last in Chicago, Ill., are in towns of considerable hotels, so that contestants will have no trouble in finding the checking official.

The checking system adopted is the one that is aimed to prevent the shipping of the cars by rail and the substitution of drivers along the route.

Each contestant on leaving New York will be given a passport which must be signed at each point by the checking official, while each member of the crew at the same point will be given a prospect card, which he must forward to Mr. Guggenheim, the referee at Seattle, as an evidence of good faith, that all the members of the crew have traveled the entire distance. This rule has been made in order not to give a manufacturer who is willing to spend big money in securing relays, or drivers an advantage over the private owner who is going into the contest entirely for pleasure but personally through an inherent love for motoring in places out of the ordinary and to see the great Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition.

The American Automobile Association has decided to hold early this season, probably in June, a series of severe tests to demonstrate, first, just what damage the automobile does to the road surface and, second, what will be the best measures in road building to adopt so as to prevent the breaking up of the road surface from constant automobile traffic.

So much has been said in the past regarding the destructive effects of motor cars upon the highways and so diverse are the efforts that have been taken not only to prevent the damage, but through various legislative acts to impose unnecessary hardships upon the owners of motor vehicles in taxing or otherwise requiring them to pay for highway maintenance, that many of the leading automobilists of the country have been considering for some time the advisability of conducting some authoritative tests.

In the tentative specifications drawn up for these tests there will be two stretches of macadam road in good condition, one about three miles long, practically level and with as few curves as possible, while the other should be a road of a similar character about one mile long with a grade of about 6 per cent. Twelve automobiles will be used, four being light high speed cars, preferably stripped for racing, four touring cars and four heavy commercial cars. One of each type will be equipped with smooth rubber tires, corrugated rubber tires, metal studded tires and sliding chains.

$1,200 PER SEASON IS RUBE'S SALARY

ST. LOUIS, May 14.—George E. (Rube) Waddell received $1,200 for pitching for the Philadelphia American League baseball team in 1906, Connie Mack, manager of the team, made this statement in a deposition here in connection with Waddell's suit for divorce.

R. J. Hedges, president of the St. Louis American League Club, said he was paying Waddell $1,200 the present season.

CLABBY TRAINING FOR TOMMY QUILL

Jim Clabby, the Milwaukee welterweight who has cleaned up all the men in his class in the Middle West, means to do the same thing in his first appearance in the East as he has taken up his training quarters at Northboro already for his fight with Tommy Quill of Brockton at the Armory A. C. next Tuesday night.

He has heard what a rugged kind of boxer Quill is evidently for he wasted no time in getting down to work in preparation for a hard bout.

Clabby looks every inch of being a good one. He was originally a New England boy as he was born in Norwich, Ct., and at an early age went West, so he is not entirely a stranger to this section and wants to make good on his first appearance.

Besides the main bout being attractive the prelims are especially good with Billy Sherlin opposed to Tommy Furey for eight rounds and Young Jack Johnson and Billy Holfe going the same distance.

NASHUA VS. GLENVALE.

GLENDALE'S CHARTER FREEZES RIVALS

The original Glenvale baseball team of Jamaica Plain, organized in 1902, has been granted a charter this season for the purpose of preventing other so-called Glenvale teams, such as Glenvale A. A., from using their names as an attraction to secure games.

James Reilly is manager of the original team and would like to complete his schedule with strong amateur and semi-professional teams, for the following dates: May 22, 31, June 5, 12, 17, 19, 26, July 3, 10, 31, Aug. 7, 14, 21. Address James Reilly, No. 112 Amory street, Jamaica Plain.

LAWRENCE, May 14.—Young Kenney of this city and Johnny Dohan of Brooklyn went twelve fast rounds in a show at the Unity Cycle Club. Kenney had a shade the better of the going, but not enough to have merited a decision. Kid Lester of Boston, who took the place of Fred Gibney, was put to sleep in the first round by Young Donahue of this city. Kid Taylor of Haverhill beat Young McCoy of this city in six rounds.

No Folly Is Like an Old Folly

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

A BACHELOR writes to ask me if I think youth alone is susceptible to the influence of Summer sentiment and folly.

No, indeed. There is no folly like old folly, and no infatuation so mad as mature infatuation.

When the Spring calls nature to awaken after its Winter sleep, the full-grown tree as well as the young sapling, feels its life force, surging through each branch and twig, and the old ivy on the wall grows green and virile, along with the little sprouts in the garden bed.

The old chanticleer crows quite as loud in his joy of renewed life as the Spring chicken.

The sun himself is no immature boy. Neither is the earth a shy young maiden, but a mature maiden. Yet the two are ever renewing their flirtation with the return of Spring, and it grows more serious and reckless as the Summer advances.

Makes the Old Young

Man, being a part of nature, joins in the universal anthem of love, irrespective of age, or color, or condition, unless it be a condition of health. A diseased tree does not readily respond to the influence of Spring. It droops under the warm rays of the sun, and the sap refuses to course through its veins. The anaemic or the hypochondriac finds only discomfort and fatigue in the Summer season. But every healthy and normal human being is stirred in heart and brain and body by the glory of the Summer days and nights.

If mature men and women seem to forget their years and their dignity sometimes when the sun is high over the green earth, let the young or the dyspeptic observer refrain from unkind criticism.

Let Years Teach Moderation

At the same time years should teach judgment and self-control, and the brain should stand guard over the emotional nature, and keep the nature mad from folly during the heated Summer season.

The very young have a long life before them in which to live down their indiscretions, but folly is a good deal like a scar—it is outgrown by the young, but it remains a blemish on the face of maturity.

Most of us struggle through life to the end, constantly overcoming ourselves in order to keep our and the world's respect, "and he that taketh a city"

One for a Buttonhole Over My Heart

What Are They Wearing—Blondes or Brunettes?

By Nell Brinkley

"Spring says the boutonniere is in again—they're wearing blondes—but brunettes are always good."

LOVE and Spring are two fat magicians! And the two of them have a garden over the hills of the clouds somewhere. And they grow things there that make your heart turn over and do a flip-flop.

And all of the flowers they grow come early—oh, early—long before the blooms of the world unfold.

All kinds there are—great shaggy-headed, gorgeous, golden flowers, with thin leaf drapery, the fluffy kind with chiffon tied under their chins—frail ones on wavering stalks that wag in the wind—tall, slim ones that can almost see over the garden wall—little short pudgy ones, with wise gold and purple eyes, close to the ground, and always looking up at everything else around till their necks must be tired—warm, raving, red ones—tender, pink ones that you want to snuggle—silken ones of flaring petals, that make your head go around with their southland perfume—little cozy ones, that tuck themselves close and dream and hide away from you—and just little plain brown "yarbs" that aren't such-a-much to look at, but they heal wherever they touch, and they're good for a man when his heart aches.

It's blossoming time now. If you go and shin up the wall and "keek" over you'll see a twittering riot of flowers, and sunlit whirls mad with taffy—and Spring is squatted flatly thereon, with a stiff starched sun-hat, with buttons on and ruffle around, shading his tender shoulders, and hoeing like "all git out" at the little flower-feet—and close under you Love—bare-headed, grinning, and grubby, with the rake, and the sprinkling can—with its diamond water—and he'll square himself around when your enchanted face comes over the wall, and he'll say:

"'Lo, old man—you aren't the first! Pardon my clothes—I'm seedy. Yaas—I know, Spring says the Boutonniere is in again—they're wearing blondes—but brunettes is always good. Take a look. I'd rather you wouldn't pick any just now—for June's the month!"

NELL BRINKLEY.

Life in the Happy Thirties

By WINIFRED BLACK

BLESS the girls, what a good time they do think they have of it, after all!

I saw two of them in a perfect scream of laughter over a magazine the other day, and when I peeped over their shoulders I saw that they were having the time of their lives laughing at an article on the pleasures of middle age.

And yet—honest and truly now, Mrs. Matron, with the gray just beginning to show at your temples—honest and truly, what was the happiest time of your life?

When you were little, and had to be bossed and scolded and kept in after school?

When you were sixteen, and sensitive, and dreamy, and diffident, and didn't know what on earth to do with your hands or how to keep from giggling when anything started you?

When you were twenty, and so dead in love that the day the postman passed the house without stopping you cried yourself almost into hysterics?

When you were twenty-two, and you thought you had to read all the last novels and see all the latest plays, or feel absolutely neglected and left out in the cold?

When you were twenty-six, and were ambitious, and distrustful, and self-critical, and just beginning to wonder whether your husband really was the right man or not, after all?

Or when you got into the good, comfortable, take-things-as-they-come, live while you're living, late thirties?

The late thirties, when the world doesn't stop if you're not among "those present" at some particular party—the late thirties, when you can actually enjoy a beautiful landscape without a man dangling at your heels.

The late thirties, when you don't expect any one to be perfect, and wouldn't know what to do with any one who expected you to be perfect.

The late thirties, when the man you love, loves you, not for what you like, nor what you wear, nor for some silly vogue you happen to have, but for yourself—your plain, everyday, human, natural, faulty, loving, quick-tempered, petty, generous, good-humored, critical, self-contradictory self, and when you wouldn't trade the man who has stood by you in trouble and done his patient best to shield you from sorrow for all the world for Romeo in the world.

The late thirties—why, a woman never begins to live till she is past thirty!

Laugh away, girls—some day you'll find out what fun it is to be over thirty.

"Adore" and "Attractive"

Two Words Girls Are Fond of Using Indiscriminately

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THERE are a number of words much in use nowadays that I am heartily sick of. Among them are "charm," "temperament," "broadminded," "adore," "peevish" and "attractive."

They have almost become slang terms, so commonly are they being used. In describing a popular girl the word "charm" is almost universally used. She may be just a nice, ordinary girl, quite lacking in that great quality, charm, but, nevertheless, she is credited with it.

The overworked words seem to be the only ones in some girls' vocabulary

"Charm" is such a wonderful quality that it carries all before it. It is superior to beauty, wit, cleverness; all other qualities.

And as for "temperament," that is merely an excuse for innumerable escapades and faults. The commonly accepted meaning of the word implies that the person blessed (?) or cursed by it is the victim of the quality, and, therefore, to go free of censure and criticism, no matter what her actions.

You rarely hear a man spoken of as temperamental; it is supposedly purely a feminine characteristic.

The term "broadminded," as commonly used, means that one looks with leniency on questionable deeds, because one is too broad to do other than excuse them, no matter how inexcusable they may be.

Fudge Is Not Adorable

How many things does the average girl "adore" during the day. Everything from babies to fudge, as far as I can see. Admiration is the highest, most essential form of love, and how can any one feel reverence for a sticky mass of chocolate and sugar. Fudge may be a very delicious dainty, but it is in no way adorable.

"Peevish" is a horrid word and it sounds its just what it means. I overheard a pretty girl the other day exclaim, "Oh, I feel so peeved." She was not a particle peevish, just annoyed for the moment, but she liked the sound of the word.

Perhaps the most tiresome of all these words is "attractive." It is much used by men as well as women. I have heard a man call "Tristan and Isolde" an "attractive" opera. Think of Wagner's great love drama being called "attractive"!

I have heard hotels called attractive, also Summer resorts, country houses, girls, automobiles, hats, dances and dear knows what.

Two expressions which are ground to death are "If you know what I mean," and "Don't you know?"

Don't Use the Expressions

All these words and expressions are quite correct when used in the right place, but they are very tiresome when so continually misused, as one hears them at present. We all exaggerate. It seems to be a national characteristic, but we make allowance for that and take each other's statements with a grain of salt.

Also there are certain slang words which have almost become correct English, but the words I have mentioned are neither slang nor approbiate.

If you find yourself using them, try to stop the habit, as other people grow very weary of hearing them. If you talk to six girls during an afternoon, I wager that all six will use the words "adore" and "attractive" a dozen times during the conversation. By the end of the afternoon you will wish that the words had never been coined.

Don't be one of the six.

SUNDAY'S AMERICAN

When a Gift Is Not a Gift

By Dorothy Dix

NORFOLK, Va., is all torn up over the legal status of the love token. It appears that in that interesting little city a youth fell in love with a girl to whom he presented a $50 engagement ring. In the process of time the girl jilted him, and he demanded back his sparklet, which the girl firmly declined to give up.

Thereupon the rejected swain sued his faithless sweetheart and the justice ordered her to return the ring.

Another judge, however, not knowing that the first Solomon had handed down an opinion on the subject, ruled that the girl could keep the ring on the ground that it was an engagement ring is neither a gift or a contract, and as there was no written contract, there can be no forcible recovery of the ring.

This leaves the question of whether a love token is a gift or a loan as undecided as ever, but also for sentiment when such things can be, when a lover sees his former lady love for the trinkiets that he gave her, and the lady love sordidly bolds on to them for the sake of their worth in dollars and cents!

Of all things on earth a man should give freely to the woman he loves, and the woman should disdain to keep for a single minute the thing that she even suspects of being a begrudged gift.

When Cupid Turns Indian Giver

Certainly, when Cupid turns Indian giver and damsels become grafters, one might as well put crepe on the door. Romance is dead.

Still the tight-wad Romeo and the thrifty Juliet are not so unfamiliar figures as we could wish them to be.

Girls have a way of conveniently losing valuable jewelry that has been bestowed upon them, and more than one forlorn swain has not known which to weep most for—the loss of his diamond ring or his sweetheart.

Of course, if a man has the faintest symptom of chivalry in his system, the only thing that he can do under such circumstances is to accept the lady's word as the matter, and charge the price of his presents up to profit and loss in the ledger of courtship.

Equally of course, if a girl has any sense of delicacy whatever, wild horses couldn't force her to keep a present from a man who regretted having given it to her and wanted it returned.

Young men of his caliber should take warning from the experience of this Virginia lover, which seems to indicate that it is a dangerous thing to give a girl anything that isn't for keeps. The law, as well as popular opinion, is on her side, and if she hasn't honor and honesty of herself to return the presents, a man has complain of girls who had three or four birthdays a year, of which they conscientiously remind every man they know, and who turned a very cold shoulder on any youth who refused to come across with the fan or bit of jewelry or trinket that the young woman had suggested would be acceptable as a souvenir of the happy occasion.

There should be no question of the ethics of returning a man's gifts, because no girl should receive presents from any man save the one to whom she is about to be married. For a girl to take valuable presents from her men acquaintances is bad taste, bad manners and bad morals.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HE WILL COME BACK

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl nineteen years old and am deeply in love with a young man two years my senior. I disagreed him one night by not going out with him, but have seen him since, and he simply speaks to me. Now, will you please tell me how I can get back with him again, as he does not go with anyone else so far?

H. E. M.

He is merely hurt and jealous, and after a time he will come back. After this, try and keep your engagements unless you have an excellent excuse for not doing so.

FOOLISH CONDUCT

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

In the office where I work there has been a young man working for the past six months. We have been on very friendly terms since he came and he always treats me as a gentleman should treat a lady. During the past week he has been transferred to another state. When he was leaving all the girls in the office shook hands with him and said good-bye to him but myself and I walked out and never said a word to him. Now, I am very sorry I did that and want to write him an apology as I like him very much. I have no reason to give him for my conduct.

S. A. G.

Yes, you might write him a note if you think of any reason to offer for your conduct. You probably hurt his feelings, so you must not be surprised if he takes some time in answering your note.

WAIT UNTIL HE WORKS.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young lady twenty years of age, and am engaged to a young man eight years my senior. I hold a very good position, but he is young. I am engaged but a few years ago I had a very good position, and saved considerable money. Now he has not worked for at least three months, and has been living on his saved money. He promises to work as soon as we marry. He has been looking for work since we have been engaged. He is gentlemanly in all respects, and has very good habits.

Should I break the engagement or wait, as I certainly cannot marry until he works. I am very fond of him, otherwise wouldn't have spent so much time with him.

F. E. N.

He is very foolish to have spent all his money, and I hope you will not marry him until he has saved something again. Let him get a position and prove that he can save money before you give up your good position. Tell him that you will not think of marrying as long as he is so lazy.

A FOOLISH OBJECTION

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man of thirty-two years and am deeply in love with a young lady of eighteen. I know that she loves me, but objects strongly to my help, which is very gray, and therefore makes me appear older than I am. I am in position to provide a comfortable home for her, as I earn twenty-three dollars a week.

Hoping that you will consider this at your earliest opportunity, I await your reply with anxiety.

J. A. N.

She is a foolish girl to object to your hair. Many people consider gray hair very becoming. She is very young, however, and if you wait a year I think she will outgrow her objections. In the meantime, go on courting her and I think you will win out in the long run.

The Manicure Lady

She Doesn't Just Know Where to Go for Her Vacation

"GOOD morning, George," said the Manicure Lady. "Have you thought about where you are going to spend your Summer vacation?"

"I haven't given it any deep thought," said the Head Barber. "I ain't just too sure that I am going to draw any Summer vacation."

"I don't know where I am going, either," said the Manicure Lady. "First I thought I would go somewhere out in the country, where I could hear the bleating of all the lambs, and hear the little chicken hawks calling to the chickens.

"Wilfred knows a place out in the country where folks can get fine, fresh country eggs and new bread three times a day. The only trouble with our going out there, Wilfred was there last year, and I know my brother well enough to know that he can't stay in any place all Summer without getting in the hole. I s'pose he probably covers them poor farmers some fifty amount right now.

"Of course there is lots of places to go. There is all of the South Shore, and up in the mountains, and down on the North Shore beaches. There is the Berkshire Hills, the coast of Maine, and a thousand other bank-outs. But somehow, George, that is just the trouble. There is too many places to go, and I can't make up my mind.

The Glories of Narragansett

"Joe Blow, the bookmaker, was in here the other day, and this subject came up. 'Why don't you go to Narragansett?' he asks me. 'Why not go and spend a quiet three weeks near the scene of my former triumphs? Why not linger near the place where Providence way where I used to put over four or five hundred thousand dollars in a season for myself?' he says. 'Narragansett was a place where the youth and beauty of a continent was to be found.' I don't know how much Joe Blow knows about a continent, George, and I do know that youth and beauty ain't any part of him.'

"When you get ready to go on your Summer vacation," said the Head Barber, "don't take nobody's advice. Go where you want to."

"But you must get some information from somewhere," declared the Manicure Lady. "You know as well as I do, George, that a young girl like I am can't go everywhere.

"No Flirting," Says Mother

"Mother wouldn't stand for me going to any place where there was flirting, and I wouldn't stand for going any place where there wasn't flirting, so between the two of us we have got to compromise on something neat, but not too nifty.

"Wilfred wrote a letter for me the other day to a friend of his that works for a railroad company, asking for a letter telling about the Summer resorts along their road. Listen to this letter I got in reply:

"'Dear Madam—Replying to your brother's note regarding our Summer resorts, we are sending you, under another cover, a circular setting forth more fully than we can by letter the charms of our various cases.

"'As you are perhaps aware, our road runs for miles through the most rugged and at the same time the most beautiful mountain scenery, where the sun dips away each eve over an orange-rimmed horizon; where in early morn, leaps languidly from the pellucid pool; where the bittern breaks through the swamp mist to wing its way toward the distant tarn; where the kingfisher hangs, sentry-like, on the birch tree branch, lying in wait for its prey, the perch.'

"That sounds kind of grand, doesn't it, George? It may or may not be true, but the simon made up my mind to go somewhere in this neighborhood. You know, I never seen a bittern, and I never seen a tarn. And the kingfisher grand to see a trout leaping languidly from one of them pellucid pools."

"It must be," admitted the Head Barber. "But before you go, you want to make sure that all them animals is there. Don't believe too much that you see in the papers, and don't fail for too much of the dope they pull in them railroad guides."

That beautiful oasis—according to the railroad guide.

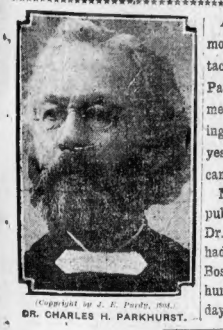
SUNDAY'S BOSTON AMERICAN

DR. PARKHURST'S REPLY TO HARRY THAW'S MOTHER



(Copyright 1909 by J. E. Purdy, Bos.)
DR. CHARLES H. PARKHURST.

An article by Mrs. Thaw, mother of Harry Thaw, attacking Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst for some statements he had made concerning her son, was printed in yesterday's Boston American.

Mrs. Thaw's article was published at the request of Dr. Parkhurst, to whom it had been submitted by the Boston American. Dr. Parkhurst's reply is printed today.

By REV. DR. CHARLES H. PARKHURST.

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

A few words, written in the kindest spirit, seem to be required in reply to the letter of Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, printed in yesterday's issue of the BOSTON AMERICAN. It is regretable that she should have so misread our article as to interpret it as "A stone thrown at her defenceless son."

No such thought was in the writer's mind. It was not with her son that the article concerned itself, but only with such newspapers as defile their columns with the indecent matter that develops in the course of criminal trials.

If reference was made to the "Thaw trial," it was not with any purpose of reflecting upon Mr. Thaw, but only in view of the fact that there were unsavory disclosures made on that occasion, as Mrs. Thaw's communication itself implies, and that papers reputed to be respectable made the most of the opportunity to reproduce in their columns as much of such disclosures as they believed the community would tolerate, and that, too, not with any ultimate purpose of benefit to the public, but with a view to their own financial advantage, willing, as it would seem, to convert even smut into a source of revenue.

Story Was Told on the Witness Stand

The second error into which Mrs. Thaw falls is contained in the following paragraph of her letter:

"Has Dr. Parkhurst forgotten his self-appointed crusade some years ago, when night after night he visited houses of ill-repute, then published broadcast accounts of his observations? Right-minded persons at the time regarded this exposition of indecency as both useless and disgusting."

In the first place Dr. Parkhurst did not "publish broadcast accounts of his observations."

It was the newspapers that published them, not Dr. Parkhurst. He told on the witness stand what he had seen, and then almost every journal on Newspaper Row threw his sentiments into print, scattered that print over the whole country and then, in some instances, at least, cursed him editorially and repetitiously for giving to flagrant indecency such wide publicity. They printed the stuff for the money that was in it, and then damned him for putting them in the way of making money.

Crusade Was Not Conducted for Revenue

A little reflection will then certainly convince Mrs. Thaw that in this particular she has unconsciously erred and urged an indictment which the facts in the case distinctly disprove.

She furthermore charges it upon us that in rebuking the newspapers for exploiting the indecencies of criminal trials we are censuring an act that was only the parallel of the offence committed by the leader of the crusade of 1892 and 1893. It is unfortunate that she has not made herself more familiar with the ground upon which she undertakes to tread. What the newspapers do in the way of printing such matter they do for the sake of the dollars that they can make out of it. The crusade of 1892 was not conducted for revenue, but on the contrary involved a tremendous expenditure of revenue. The papers do it for the financial fun there is in it. There was no fun in it in 1892, either financial or otherwise.

Indecency for the Sake of Profit

The papers are interested in indecency for its own sake. The crusade had no interest in indecency, was not searching for it for its own sake, nor even for the sake of dissipating it, but only that it might be availed of as means whereby the connection could be uncovered and popularly understood that existed between the police and the criminals.

It would be presumed that Mrs. Thaw's intelligence and familiarity with the facts and purposes of the crusade to which she makes pointed reference would have prevented the impassioned and precipitate charge which she brings, and would have saved the necessity of informing her on matters upon which she ought to have been thoroughly at home before ventilating her views upon them in the public prints.

She says, moreover, that the crusade was "useless." The crusade, we may be permitted to say, had one simple and definite object, which was to prove that crime was a marketable commodity, and that the police dealt in that commodity and were making themselves rich by it. And the crusade succeeded in proving this to the satisfaction of the city, the State and the country. Mrs. Thaw calls the crusade "useless" because she does not know what its object was nor how perfectly it attained its object. As said before, she ought to have known all these things before projecting herself into print.

Feeling, Not Thought, Had the Monopoly

Anything but the most courteous reflection upon her letter of criticism would, however, be most ungenerous, for we can all understand the bruised-heart spirit that prompted her communication and can respect it. Unfortunately she allowed feeling rather than thought to have the monopoly in its preparation, and thus came to its composition with an aggravated sensitiveness that led her to find offence where no offence was intended, and with an ignorance of facts that quite invalidated her conclusions.

[At the time of his experiences, referred to by Dr. Parkhurst, the BOSTON AMERICAN was not born. This newspaper would not print such matter as Dr. Parkhurst refers to, and he is justified in his denunciation of newspapers that did and do print such vile stuff.]

Special Announcement by DR. GREENE

Medical Lecturer, Specialist and Proprietor of

DR. GREENE'S NERVURA

To My Patients and the Public:

I have decided to give up my summer vacation this year and devote my entire time to the numerous cases under my care.

I feel in duty bound, in justice to my reputation, acquired by forty-three years of honest, honorable medical practice, to say that if my remarkably curative prescriptions, my true and time-tested medicines—my most valuable recipes, my private and exclusive remedies are desired, it is at my office only that they can be obtained, and all medicines are prepared to meet the requirements of each individual case.

I personally see all who call, prepare all medicines and answer all letters. Consultation and advice free.

THE JOURNAL OF A NEGLECTED WIFE

By MABEL HERBERT URNER

Copyrighted, 1909, by B. W. Dodge & Co.

November 3d.

"THE relations of men and women can never remain stationary. They must either go forward or backward; there is no resting place, no height that can be permanently held." ✱ Is that true, or was it written, as such things are, only for literary effect?

His love for her—has it yet reached the heights, that it must soon recede?

To what self-abnegation have I been subdued that I could write that last sentence—to imply that I was willing to wait for his love for her to wane that he might come back to me!

November 4th.

I REMEMBER long ago saying to Horace that I had no special talent. Art, music, literature, languages—I had a superficial aptitude for them all, but a real talent for none.

And he answered tenderly: "Sweetheart, you have the greatest talent for loving."

"A talent for loving!" Yes, I have had that, and the saddest part of all is that I have it still.

"A talent for loving!" Horace, it is breaking my heart. Why did it not die within me when it ceased to give you pleasure?

"A talent for loving!" Oh, it did make you happy once, Horace. Have you forgotten how often you held me in your arms, murmuring that no other women in the world could love so deeply, tenderly, that no one else could have such quaint little ways of loving?

Have you forgotten the "whispering kisses"—coaxing, so softly your cheek and eyes with my lips and just sweeping your neck with my eyelashes—a little purring caress all my own?

And oh, so many tender intimate love-ways—have you forgotten them, Horace? Have you forgotten them all?

And when you come home tired, fretted, and with a cruel headache, I would kneel by the couch beside you, with my lips pressed against your forehead, until my very love would draw away the pain, and you would fall asleep, often with your arm clasped close around me, and however cramped or numb I might become, I would still kneel there, not moving for fear of waking you.

Will any other woman love you like that, Horace? Will any other woman give you so much? Oh, I am crying so I cannot see to write.

November 5th.

IF our child had lived! To have had it with us every day, to know that life was there because we had loved! My child and his—a constant living reminder of all that our love had meant, knowing that out of it had grown all the immortality that life can give. Could any one have ever come between us then?

November 6th.

I HAVE been reading back through this journal. Last April the twenty-seventh I wrote this:

"Now he knows that I know, I would have to leave him. If there is in me any vestige of womanly pride, I could not continue to live with him and tacitly consent to be daily dishonored."

And yet that is what I am doing now. I am still living with him, though now he knows that I know. And I have not the strength to go away!

November 7th.

I HAVE become so nervous and unstrung lately that I dread even to go out on the street alone.

To-day I was almost half an hour trying to cross a crowded corner. Cars, cabs, trucks, recklessly driven automobiles and a crushing, deafening stairway overhead—it all seemed so terrific me.

I stood on the curb afraid to cross. Several times I started and then ran back as an automobile swept down upon me.

At last a policeman came and walked over beside me.

When I reached home I was weak from strained, quivering nerves. And a year ago I could dart fearlessly across the most crowded street! I know that this strange, unreasoning fear I now have for the most trivial thing is growing upon me.

When Horace came home I wanted to cry out to him to stay with me, to put his arms about me, to keep away this haunting fear. I believe if I could only tell him—if he knew—he would try to help me—he would not let this grow upon me.

November 8th.

THIS morning I awoke with such a weight of despondency, of hopelessness, that I felt I could not meet another day.

The mere thought of bathing, of dressing, of even going through the necessary routine of the day, took upon me as something too difficult of accomplishment.

The cold air from an open window was blowing on me, but to cross the room and put down the window seemed an effort that would take more intitutive, more strength, more courage than I had to give.

Did any one ever turn their face to the wall and say: "I am through. The burden of life is too heavy—I will never take it up again," and then lie there until death released them? And would the release come soon?

This morning I felt if only I could lie there, that to me it would come very soon, for my body seemed sunk, too weary, to hold life within it much longer.

Pop Anson's Puzzles Solved

THERE are inconsistencies in Pop Anson's story of an old-time baseball game, which go to prove that the old fellow's memory is at fault, and that he really could not have made that famous home run and brought in three men on bases.

He states that the game went eight innings without a run on either side, but that there was "something doing" in the ninth, and that the game wound up with the score of 2 to 0. Pop also stated that Stearns was first to the bat. Now, the team that was in for the first half of the ninth inning must have won the game with seven runs, for the reason that if they had made the two the other team would have had only to make three runs to win the game, and the score would have stood two-three. Since the Colts came last, their score must have been two, and Pop's story of having been responsible for four runs is contradicted by other statements in his narrative.

SOCIETY

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Miss Mary Shaw, who came over from New York for the Thursday Club luncheon at the Oxford, made an excellent impression on the members of the Professional Women's Club of which she was a guest. Miss Shaw spoke very entertainingly of her work. She was charmingly gowned in violet chiffon cloth, and wore a hat of burnt straw, with small, delicately shaded violets. Among those at the luncheon were Mrs. Nellie M. Horne, Miss Alice Chapman, Miss Marion H. Bunker, Mrs. Edward Payson Thayer, Mrs. Albert Geiger, Miss Helen M. Winslow, Miss Mary Ashton, Miss Caro Colburn, Miss Foster, Miss B. F. G. Brainard, Miss Helen Reynolds, Mrs. Herbert A. Harrington, and Drs. E. B. Cahill, N. Louise Lawrence, Eliza Dadman, Laura A. Mrs. George von L. Meyer, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, and the Misses Meyer, are to make a short trip abroad before taking up their Summer residence at Hamilton. They leave Washington to-day, I am informed, and go to New York, where they depart on Saturday on the Berlin for Naples. They will visit Mrs. Meyer's aunt, Miss Mason, in Rome.

My friend Miss Dorothy Forbes is to be one of the ushers at the Pop concert in aid of Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell's Hospital at Labrador, to be held in Town Hall, Milton, this evening. The committee on arrangements includes Tarrant P. King, Roger L. Scaise, Roger Pierce and Miss Josephine Griffith. The latter will be in charge of the ushers. As the concert is for a very commendable charity, I look to see the hall thronged.

The reception and tea given this afternoon at the Vendome in honor of Mrs. Charles H. Masury of Danvers brings out a notable company. As anything which Mrs. Masury is connected with is of the most enjoyable sort, I look to see a real smart tea. There will be undoubtedly many new and attractive gowns. Mrs. Masury's home in Danvers, I am informed, is perfectly charming at the present time.

Mrs. Hall McAllister and her congenial and attractive family have leased one of Major Henry L. Higginson's cottages at Manchester for the Summer. They are to move down shortly. Their place is not far removed from that of President Taft's.

TOBACCO TRUST IS HARD HIT BY BEVERIDGE

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Senator Beveridge went after the tobacco trust hammer and tongs when the tariff debate was resumed in the Senate to-day. His speech was sensational in that it exposed the inner working of the trust and the identity of the men who comprise one of the most gigantic monopolies in the world. Senator Beveridge spoke in part as follows:

"In 1898 the tax on all forms of tobacco was raised in order to supply the government with a needed increase in revenue. But at the time the increased tobacco tax or tobacco it authorized tobacco manufacturers to reduce the size of the package in which the tobacco was sold to the people. In 1901-2 this increased tobacco tax was removed, but the short-weight packages of tobacco were continued by the very law that removed the tax.

$184,000,000 Loss to Government.

"The manufacturer still collects the war time tax from the people. In this way the government has handed over to tobacco manufacturers for their benefit since 1902 $69,67 in 1902. $23,981,807.21 in 1903. $26,915,270.88 in 1904. $27,903,540.49 in 1905. $29,324,009.97 in 1906. $31,198,451.32 in 1907 and $805,646,298.89 in 1908. All told the government has lost $184,609,845.83 in the last eight years.

"Within five hours from the time this amendment is presented in the newspapers of the country employed by the tobacco trust to watch legislation affecting it will be in Washington and remain here until the amendment is acted upon. I am not sure that they are not here now. And within twenty-four hours from the time this amendment is published in the newspapers agents of the American Tobacco Company will be at work among the cigarmakers all over the country trying to persuade that their interests will be served heavily upon them and attempting to frighten them into bringing pressure with petitions and resolutions against it. Therefore I wish to be the most emphatic now to reassure the cigar makers of the country.

Controls the Output.

"By cutting prices so as to compel competitors to sell to it or enter the new combinations which it from time to time has organized, the American Tobacco Company has at the present time secured control of more than 81 per cent. of the entire output of chewing tobacco of the country, more than 75 per cent. of the smoking tobacco output of the country; more than 82 per cent. of the cigarette output of the country and more than 90 per cent. of the snuff output of the country.

"The Tobacco Trust has passed through many forms of corporate duplication and combination. These have changed their consumation at the time when the war tax was removed, and the war time package was specially continued by express words of the law.

"It is worthy of note that when the war tax would be removed, such men as Ryan, Dolan, Whitney, Haskell, Widener, Eddon and others well known to the world of finance forced their way into the inner councils of the Tobacco Trust.

Well-Known Trust Magnates.

"It is still more worthy of note that when, according to the newspapers, Mr. Thomas F. Ryan had been determined to retire from most of his financial enterprises, he retained as his one favorite enterprise his holdings and active participation in the American Tobacco Company, which is the Tobacco Trust. The principal men in control of the Tobacco Trust are James B. Duke, Thomas F. Ryan, Oliver H. Payne, Anthony N. Brady, and the banking and brokerage firm of Moore & Schley—Edwin Whitney and Widener having died."

EXPECT RATE WAR BETWEEN JAP SHIPS

VICTORIA, B. C., May 14.—A rate war will probably result between the two Japanese transpacific lines, following the establishment next month of the Osaka Shosen Kaisha service in conjunction with the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad. The Osaka Shosen Kaisha will have five new boats in service by next January, drawing subsidies amounting to $500,000 annually.

SCOTS' SOCIETY HONORS FORMER CHIEF AT FETE

ALEX McGREGOR.

M'GREGOR IS GIVEN JEWEL

Alexander McGregor, treasurer of Houghton & Dutton Co., and formerly president of the Scots' Charitable Society, was the guest of honor at a complimentary banquet tendered at the Algonquin Club last evening by Counselors Hugh G. Brown of the Hotel & Railroad News Company. Among those present were William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Company; Dr. Miles Martin, Robert E. Davis, Alderman Walter Ballantyne and about a dozen others. The dinner was a testimonial in recognition of Mr. McGregor's efforts in behalf of the Scots' Charitable Society while at the head of it.

Mr. McGregor was presented with a jeweled medal. It is in the form of a shield outlined in enamel and bordered by a laurel wreath. The front coat of arms is in relief and on the horizontal bar above the emblems are the words "Past President," on the oval enamel band is the inscription "Scots' Charitable Society. Founded 1657." The back of the field is a sunburst on which are raised symbols of the coat of arms. The jewel, which is about 1½ inches in diameter, is pendant from a McGregor plaid ribbon. Each guest received a fac simile of arms printed in colors on white silk.

Commodore Brown presented the emblem to Mr. McGregor, saying:

"He is a grand Scotchman, a good citizen, and a devoted wife—always living on the sunny side of the street—charitable to his man, woman or child, and spreads the sunshine wherever he travels."

Mr. McGregor in accepting the gift said in part:

"If I knew by any way deserved commendation I am proud it was won in charitable work. There is nothing more sacred than a life examining the spirit of him who said: 'I was sick and ye visited me; naked and ye clothed me; hungry and ye fed me.'"

$2,000,000 HALIBUT COMPANY FORMING

SEATTLE, May. 14.—Coincident with the report that the New England Fish Company, the most powerful individual fishing company in the country, is prepared to transfer the shipping headquarters from Vancouver to Seattle, on account of the attitude of the Canadian authorities, is the announcement that an English corporation is preparing to enter the field. It is reported that Sylvester F. Swettenham is in Vancouver to invest $2,000,000 in a company with headquarters at Prince Rupert.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS: FINANCIAL NEWS

HIGH RECORDS IN NEW YORK

By T. C. SHOTWELL.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Buoyancy of Union Pacific was the feature of trading in Wall street to-day, with the prices of the stock at almost the highest point for the year. London was also excited over this issue and Wall street saw a wide opening in it. Steel followed Union Pacific with an advance of nearly a point. Delaware & Hudson made a new high record in the first half hour at 190¾, while Reading, Ontario & Western and the coalers were strong.

Erie advanced to within a slight fraction of its record price for this movement and Rock Island was strong again. Rock Island preferred sold at a record high price of 72¾. Consolidated Gas also advanced, and specialties such as American Can, International Pump, National Enameling and Reality were in good demand, although not specially active. Influential news that the United Metals Selling Company has disposed of 80,000,000 pounds of copper metal thus far in May. This has caused good buying of all the copper stocks, both on the Exchange and Curb.

On the low cost producers, with Ray Central, Inspiration, Miami, Ray Consolidated, Chile and Nevada Consolidated, were the features. The last named made a new high record for the movement at 22. Cumberland Ely was stronger than usual.

SAGGING TREND IN LOCAL LIST

STATE STREET.—Stocks did not do much in the early trading, but had a sagging tendency. The tension was more or less acute, and traders would leave bulled stocks had not weakness developed in the New York market. Amalgamated eased off ½ to 83¾, while Boston Consolidated stiffened ⅛ to 13⅛. North Butte steadied and sold at from 61 to 61⅜.

Other Market Features.

East Butte was offered down close to 13 and the rights weakened to 80 cents. Lake Copper had a firm tone at 25@25¼, and Nevada Consolidated stiffened slightly to 22⅞. U. S. Smelting had a strong spell at the opening, touching 47.

On the Local Curb.

Southwestern Development and Ohio Copper were the curb exchange features. The former had a spectacular rise from 50 to 64 cents, with later reaction to be low 50 cents. Trading was active and generally strong, although activity lessened on the decline. Ohio rose to 7 3-16 on spirited trading. Fires National was firm around 6¾, and Carbon Copper touched 10¾. Cumberland Ely and inspiration both advanced ⅛.

WALL ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

WALL STREET, New York, May 14.—Professionals insisted on selling Reading short, only to cover wildly on the next advance. Many traders are trying to find the top of the market that it is difficult to tell whether stocks are going because of value or because of the short interest. All the wise ones in the street are ready to swear a distinct change is coming over the market within a few days. The charts confirm this feeling and the only reason, probably, it will not happen is that those who seem willing to sell stocks are those who do not have them.

To the student of Reading, the action of the stock is no surprise. One of the great inducements to joining the company is that now that the Supreme Court has been heard from on the commodity clause, there is reason to assume that the yearlong factory will be lifted from the coal and iron company. One of the curiosities of finance has been the exact balance between large and comparatively small concern. Its business has run between $30,000,000 and $39,000,000 every year for some time. The expansion, down to the final cent, have been the same as the receipts. If the Supreme Court Judges will now make a decided difference in favor of the road, it is not a wild conjecture that the net profits from that source will run to $5,000,000.

And there are other resources. The Reading itself controls 44 per cent. of the anthracite coal in Pennsylvania. The Jersey Central owns 18 per cent., and as the Reading owns $14,500,000 of the stock of Jersey's $25,000,000, the Reading has 63 per cent. of the anthracite output of Pennsylvania. The coal and iron company in its last statement showed assets of $43,000,000. At to-day's quotation the share of the Jersey Central owned by the Reading was worth $32,000,000; that is to say, there are liquid assets other than Reading per se which amount to $66,000,000.

Reading, which has been operated on a 66 per cent. basis, is earning 12 per cent. The company normally can be run on a 60 per cent. basis; at this ratio the net returns would be 16 per cent. All this aside from the great possibilities offered by the coal and iron company. Reading has 4,062 miles of track, which is against a bonded indebtedness of $148,000,000 mortgage. Finally, the bonds are redeemable, of which there are $42,000,000, can be retired, giving the Reading a bonded debt of preferred and one-half of common. The information, therefore, of the Reading trading on a 6 per cent. basis in July is merely a preliminary incident to larger disbursements later on.

Rock Island directors have agreed to pay a dividend on the preferred stock this year, and the public may as well be relieved of the uncertainty of the matter. At present the movement in Rock Island is being made to look as speculative as possible, but the buying is for keeps. Buying is so open that it frightens some of the professionals. The advance in Can is being engineered by the same interests that have in hand the Rock Island deal. The coal stocks are next in line. Can movement are remarkably good earnings plan is now in force to put an end to all of paying off the accumulated dividend on the preferred. The preferred stock in connection with the advance of Rock Island, the old method of giving full control of power to the common shares was revived.

Erie directors are finding trouble in getting the required number of consents to the new bond issue. It is rumored that all but 40 per cent. have been got in, and that the company is disposed of the balance of the $121,000,000 bond issue authorized in 1903. Of these bonds, only $22,000,000 have been issued. They are selling respectively at 83 for Series A and 76 for Series B. Some of the holders of the two issues of Erie bonds has been one of the big commercial banking institutions in Wall Street the past week. Attention was also attracted to this by the Erie bonds a week ago, and since then they have made their influence felt in advances every day, despite orders like soldiers. They advanced one point each yesterday, and will continue to advance.

The importance of Hawley's personality was made apparent when certain buying of the Interborough-Metropolitan stocks developed shortly after Chesapeake & Ohio made its new high record. The market for local tractions has improved to a surprising extent since Mr. Hawley's return, and it is likely that Hawley is helping in the recuperation.

MORTGAGE FILED FOR $30,000,000

A mortgage for $30,000,000, one of the largest ever filed in the Suffolk Registry of Deeds, was given to-day by the American Building Trust of this city to John H. Hodsdon of this city, Charles T. C. Whitcomb of Dedham and Sister P. Dana of Newtontown. This great amount, which is to be used for an issue of 3 per cent. sixty-year gold coupon bonds, is secured by the realty and personal holdings of the mortgagee, including a large holding of flats and wharf property on East First street, South Boston.

Lafayette G. Blair and Henry L. Burnham of this city and John F. Thompson of Brookline are trustees of the American Building Trust, but none of these would divulge what the proceeds of the bond issue are to be used for, although it is expected that a large amount of it will be used in further developing the property of the trust in South Boston.

BOSTON AMERICAN

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, MAY 14, 1909

To Preserve a Government by the Consent of the Governed, the Boston American Advocates:

First, direct nominations, that the people may select such public servants as they deem worthy;

Second, the recall, that the people may dismiss such public servants as have proved unworthy;

Third, the initiative, that the people may compel action upon such legislation as they deem necessary;

Fourth, the referendum, that the people may accept or reject legislation as they deem desirable;

Fifth, a Corrupt Practices act that will limit election expenses to legitimate purposes and make men, and not money, the deciding force in American politics;

Sixth, public ownership of public utilities, that the values created by the people shall belong to the people, and a referendum upon every public franchise, that no public servant shall barter the people's property for his private gain;

Seventh, the election of Senators by the people, and of Judges for short terms, that no branch of government shall feel itself too far above the people or too long removed from the people.

Where Is Mr. Taft on the Tariff?

Senator Aldrich, the Acting President, Represents the Beneficiaries of Extortion

Not from a Democratic Senator—if, indeed, that classification meant anything more than meaningless noise against the Republicans—BUT FROM THE REPUBLICAN PARTY'S OWN RANKS shouts the demand square into the face of Senator Aldrich, the Acting President of the United States, exacting answer to the query if this tariff revision is not the same old story—the framing of tariff schedules, not by the representatives of the people, but by the manufacturers directly interested.

Said Senator Dolliver, the chief Republican representative of Iowa, to Senator Aldrich: "McKinley, in despair, turned the making of the wool tariff over to a mass meeting of its beneficiaries. And Governor Dingley's avowed purpose to reduce the McKinley rates was vetoed by the threats and clamor of outside interests!"

Senator Dolliver aimed his shot straight at Senator Aldrich, who is bossing the tariff revision. He demanded to know why the present revision was not made in accordance with the same principle as when, long ago, Mr. Aldrich himself "labored month after month, night after night, with William A. Allison, to make a schedule for wool and woolens in which the public welfare would exceed sordid private interest."

There appears to be now only one national party, and that is the Republican party. BUT THAT PARTY HAS DEVELOPED TWO PARTIES! One is typified by the granite Aldrich, and the other, for the moment, expresses itself through the protesting Dolliver of Iowa.

Mr. Dolliver is a politician of chivalry. He hurled his plumed chapeau at the battlemented rooks of Aldrichism, and it was not picked up. MR. ALDRICH REPRESENTS SIMPLY THE SAME OLD STORY OF THE SPECIAL BENEFICIARIES OF EXTORTION!

All of which attests the point we have been making editorially, all the while, viz.: WHERE IS MR. TAFT!

Are Blackboards a Menace to the Youth?

This Is Something New; Maybe It Is True

Various elderly and middle-aged patrons of the little old red schoolhouse and the temple of instruction at the crossroads will be grieved by the insinuation from a member of the educational committee of a congress of mothers that the schoolroom blackboard has a demoralizing effect on the health and morals of pupils.

According to this estimable woman the blackboard of the fathers is of a color that leads to crime and other unpleasant consequences. Anything, so long as it is not black, would be preferable.

Lombroso and other eminent authorities in the matter of criminology have laid considerable stress on the importance of color in the development of the human family, and great waves of reform, not contemplated by our ancestors, have resulted from their conclusions.

The scholar of the previous generation would confess in all probability that the old-fashioned blackboard had considerable to do with the condition of his health from time to time, but it would be hard to convince him that it had any serious or alarming effect on his morals.

It is possible that the old-time schoolboy was more hardened to existing conditions, and that his morals thrived on black as readily as present day virtue waxes on pink or violet or Alice blue. It will not do to judge the estheticism of modern life by the colorless solemnity of the past. Even the pleasing combination of blackboards in red schoolhouses has lost its pristine charm.

Times change and we change with them. A sentiment probably as true to-day as in the period before blackboards came along to uproot traditions and impair health and morality.

Success After Failure

Frederick the Great

By Rev. Thomas B. Gregory

WHEN, IN 1740, Frederick, at the age of twenty-eight, found himself at the head of the House of Brandenburg, he realized, with deep humiliation, that he was a monarch in name only.

This distressing situation Frederick purposed to end, and almost as soon as his mock crown was on his head he set out to make a real one.

His little patch of a kingdom needed to be enlarged, and, without a shadow of justice or right, he reached out after Maria Theresa's province of Silesia.

Accordingly, he went out after Silesia, and got it. The victorious Moiwitz brought the treaty which ceded to him the coveted prize.

Moiwitz! What a moral that word teaches! It was Frederick's first battle, and what did he do? Stand his ground and fight? No, in mortal fright and terror he ran away from the field, leaving the battle to be won by his generals.

And yet this man who deserted the field in his first battle through sheer cowardice afterward became one of the greatest captains of all time—one of the most striking instances known in history of the possibility of splendid success after disgraceful failure.

Hignt after the Silesia affair, and as a consequence of it, came the "Seven Years' War." The whole world sprang to arms. Behind Frederick were his little mock kingdom of Brandenburg, and against him were Austria, Russia, Saxony, Sweden and a good share of the present Germany.

But Europe was reckoning without the host. It did not know the sort of stuff that there was in Frederick's soul. The man who ran away like a white-livered coward from the field of Molwitz was recovering his poise. That cowardice was only of the nerves, it did not reach the soul.

In the great war the pendulum swung back and forth, now one way and now the other.

But the combination was a tremendously powerful one, and, rolling upon Frederick at Kunersdorf, it dealt him what all Europe thought was his death blow. The Prussian King appeared to be literally crushed.

His answer to Kunersdorf was Liegnitz and Freiburg, and the treaty of Hubertusburg, and victory!

The small state had beaten all Europe, and the once insignificant House of Brandenburg was a real kingdom, the nucleus of what was to become the mighty German empire.

Senator Taylor's Story

By Jas. S. Evans.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—"We have lazy men everywhere," said Senator Robert L. Taylor of Tennessee. "But down near Dallas City, where the Night Riders have been frightening everybody from the Governor down, there is a man named Lou Knight, who, for indolence, has no peer.

"Lou is a hermit. His only companion is a dog. He lives in a small cabin, one that contains no windows, apertures or exits except the door. When it is raining he sleeps; when the weather is fair as either fishes or hunts.

"He provides a mat for the dog to sleep on and this is placed at the entrance to the one room. When Lou wakes up, the room being dark, he cannot tell whether it is raining or if the atmosphere is dry. So he calls in the dog and, reaching over, feels of its back. If wet or moist he goes back to sleep, if dry he gets up.

"And I think it may compare Lou Knight's hatred of some of the Senators in charge of this tariff bill," continued the Senator. "They are feeling of the backs of too many dogs to ascertain how the weather is. Understand?"

World's Colors.

Of the races of the world, 600,000,000 are white, 700,000,000 yellow, 210,000,000 black, 35,000,000 brown or Malayan, and 15,000,000 red or American Indians.

The Plot

By Wex Jones

HE lists are set, the crowd is tense,
And from her throne above
Beams down upon the populace the beauteous Queen of Love.
Edith de Jonquil is the Queen, as fair as budding rose,
And for her hand there have been dealt a thousand murderous blows;
But now the tourney's narrowed
down; only two knights survive;
And from their records when they joust but one will stay alive.
One is the grizzled veteran, Sir Almous De la Spear,
And one that gallant stripling, the scion of De Vere.

Guy de la Spear has castles, and acres broad and fat;
De Vere has but his trusty sword—
and owes the bill for that.—
Edith must wed the conqueror, her father has decreed,
And to disobey a father were then a reckless deed.
'Tis rumored that she loves De Vere,
but on her shining face
The tension of the tournament leaves
not the slightest trace.
Indeed, she smiles bewitchingly as the rival pennons dance,
Though De la Spear's the doughtiest
knight that ever couched a lance.

The trumpets blow; De Vere bounds forth, like a bloodhound on the scent,
While De la Spear is seen to stand stock-still outside his tent.
And as the youth rides down the lists
before the wondering eyes
The Queen of Love rejoicefully bestows on him the prize.
Is De la Spear a craven—has the veteran lost his nerve—
He who before a thousand foes was never known to swerve?
No; 'tis not through fear that De la
Spear stands rooted to the spot,
But because his bribed attendant filled his armor full of shot.

(NOTE—Thine says: "Mark Twain, the American author, undoubtedly discovered the original of his 'Sounding Frog' in this ancient ballad."—Hist. Eng. Lit., Chap. II., p. 57).
